

Socreds Could Lose in Close Race

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — There are strong and persistent signs that Tuesday's byelection vote in Vancouver South could result in an upset defeat for Social Credit.

Although the Socreds, NDP and Liberals are all predicting victory by a substantial margin, some party officials are saying privately as the six-week campaign winds up this weekend the result will be close.

Both New Democrat Norman Levi and Liberal E. A. (Sam) Robertson are predicting they will make big gains this time. And an on-the-spot check of voter reaction indicates the underdog Liberals may be gaining ground on the NDP which established early dominance in the campaign.

This leaves Socred George Wainborn, supported a high-powered cabinet contingent headed by Premier Bennett, fighting to hold onto the remnants of what had been a comfortable lead in the riding in the Sept. 12, 1966, provincial general election.

An accurate prediction by professional politician, pollster or pundit, is made more difficult than usual because this is a byelection.

The best-laid political plans, particularly of the government, are liable to run afoul of what is known as the byelection syndrome. This is then the voter, overcome by frustration, lets off steam by kicking the administration without running the risk of a change of government.

The issues, and predicting the final outcome, are further confused by the June 25 federal election campaign just now getting under and a local city-wide plebiscite on downtown development slated to be held next Wednesday, the day after the byelection.

Honors for the best campaign organization must go to the NDP.

The NDP's Norman Levi, a

stocky 41-year-old who is on leave of absence from his job as a social worker with the John Howard Society, is a proven vote-getter in the area. He has five children, was a tank driver in the British Army and later in the 1948 Israeli-Arab conflict, and is a fluent and articulate speaker.

His opponents refer to the NDP candidate and the party's campaign organization as "the professionals." Mr. Levi ran federally in the riding in 1965, polling 10,700 votes, and in the last provincial election he was runner-up with 9,067 — some 2,700 behind Social Credit's second successful candidate in the two-seat riding.

The NDP has concentrated on a massive sign campaign, intensive personal canvassing in

Saigon Cabinet Resigns

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Van Loc and his cabinet have resigned, a spokesman for Loc said today.

The spokesman, Bui Nghi, said President Nguyen Van Thieu had accepted the resignations of Loc and his 17 ministers but asked them to stay on as a caretaker government until a new cabinet can be formed.

Loc was a close ally of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky in the Saigon hierarchy. Ky and Thieu have been rivals for the nation's leadership.

'DO-NOTHING' CABINET

The resignations apparently had no connection with Vietnam talks in Paris between the United States and North Vietnam.

Loc, 45, served six months as premier.

TV Debate Falls Apart

Broader Plan By CBC

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC announced Friday night it remains ready to organize a bilingual television debate between the leaders of the three major political parties campaigning for the June 25 federal election.

The statement followed Ottawa reports that negotiations for a Trudeau-Stanfield national television debate on CTV had broken off.

J. P. Gilmore, a CBC vice-president, said in a statement here the CBC "is agreeable to make suitable co-production arrangements with CTV" for a national debate.

He said the CBC would make such broadcasts available to "every radio and television station in Canada."

Conservative officials announced in Ottawa that the CTV debate between Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield had been cancelled. They blamed Trudeau.

The prime minister has said that he would be willing to take part in a television debate only if other party leaders, including T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, were able to participate.

Conservative campaign chairman Edwin Goodman, said a five-man debate would not be a confrontation but more like a United Nations Security Council round-table meeting.

Goodman said Trudeau earlier had agreed in principle to a debate with Stanfield "and with no other person."

Senator John Nichol, chairman of the Liberal campaign, said Goodman "would not enter into discussions as to formats by which other parliamentary leaders could participate."

Trudeau was quoted on an Ottawa television station as saying "... you television people started this; well you solve it and I'm prepared to accept any conditions which are acceptable to all as fair and equitable."

Hanoi Insisting in Talks:

All Raids Must Stop

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's continued refusal Friday to accept any compromise on the issue of U.S. bombing raids posed a prospect of stalemate in the preliminary peace talks here.

With the talks resuming today after a two-day recess, a North Vietnamese spokesman said Ambassador Xuan Thuy would again demand that the U.S. stop all acts of war against the North.

Hanoi intends to hold out indefinitely for a bombing halt, spokesman Nguyen Van Sao said. "We will ask it again and again until it comes to pass."

Asked whether North Vietnam would offer some form of de-escalation of the communist war effort in the South, Sao replied: "There is not a single Vietnamese plane flying over the United States. The United States must stop the bombing. There is no compromise possible on this issue."

The U.S. delegation has declined to be pinned down to any specific formula for a bombing halt, but it has tied such action closely to a demand for a significant letup in North Vietnam's infiltration of men and supplies to the South.

William J. Jordan, spokesman for the U.S. delegation, told reporters a North Vietnamese agreement on any one specific point—for example, on restoration of the demilitarized zone between the two Vietnams—would not be enough to justify an end to all military action against the North.

"I would say that the condition for the cessation of the bombing would have to be based on the total situation prevailing at the time," Jordan said.

Draft Centre Rushed And Records Burned

CATONSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Nine anti-war protesters charged into an armed forces induction office here Friday, dumped 600 draft records into trash burners, and set them afire in a nearby parking lot.

The nine included two men, Rev. Philip Berrigan, a Jesuit priest, and Thomas Lewis, a peace worker, who already were facing possible prison terms for their part in a demonstration last October when blood was poured on draft board records in Baltimore.

The nine entered the office shortly after noon. Mrs. Mary Murphy, 59, the chief clerk and one of the three women in the office said one approached her and she asked "What can I do for you?" The others crowded around and then charged into the room where the files of 13,000 men were stored.

She said two of the men carried large trash burners. "We don't mean any harm," one man said.

They emptied the contents of four file drawers into the burners. Each drawer contained 150 files. One of the clerks tried to stop them and was brushed aside. Mrs. Murphy got a hand or one of the burners and received a cut finger when it was wrestled away from her.

John Moxley, a maintenance man at the building, said he saw the crowd enter the building and a few minutes later heard Mrs. Murphy scream. "She screamed and

Kosygin, said an announcement, came at the invitation of the Czechoslovak Communist party presidium and the government. It said he would undergo treatment for an undisclosed illness and exchange views with officials "on questions of mutual interest."

Kosygin was described as taking "a short leave."

Ailing Kosygin in Prague

PRAGUE (AP)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived here unexpectedly Friday, hard on the heels of a top-level Soviet military mission, for what was officially described as medical treatment and talks with the leaders of Czechoslovakia's new liberal government.

The visit, announced only after Kosygin's arrival from Moscow, came as Czechoslovak officials were trying to play down some of the violent anti-Soviet attacks of the uncensored Prague press. The government has been bending backward to assure the Kremlin that it will remain communist, despite Soviet concern.

Five Nations Feel Wrath of Students

By Reuters

Student unrest flared in five countries Friday, with marches, demonstrations, strikes and violence sparked by a variety of causes. (See Page 38.)

IN PARIS, which last week saw the worst postwar street-fighting in a century, militant students met and demonstrated in an effort to cement an alliance with striking workers.

IN MADRID, an attempted demonstration by about 400 university students against the Spanish head of state, Francisco Franco, was thwarted by police backed by cavalry and water hoses. The students blocked traffic, buried tables and chairs and stoned police and passing cars before dispersing.

IN DUBLIN, hundreds of university students marched on two newspaper offices to protest press reporting of disturbances there Wednesday during the visit of the king and queen of Belgium.

IN MILAN, Italy, mounted police charged about 400 university students as they started out on a march, chanting slogans against the government.

IN SOUTH AMERICA, violence erupted in the Peruvian town of Huasna as students demanding a technical university blew up two bridges and attacked the local police station. One person was killed and 10 seriously injured when police opened fire and used tear gas.

Burger Research Due—with Relish

SOLID FRONT: The hamburger lobby must be strong. Since I suggested we need more and better quality hamburgers I have been flooded with offers to try out various establishments just to prove that I am wrong.

However one operator did admit he has tasted some pretty terrible burgers around Victoria.

One burger vendor from outside the city limits said the problem was Victoria. He suggested Victoria's burger barons are just not with it.

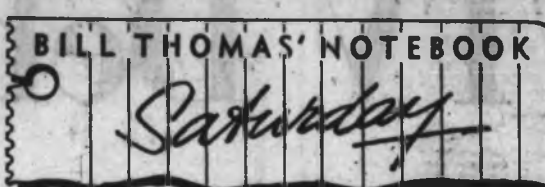

One gentleman arrived with a flock of testimonials that made me quite embarrassed. If I take advantage of the offers then it's a pound to a penny I put on a ton, but it could make very good eating.

The ground rules for the product of my dreams include raw onions, fresh buns, generous amounts of ground beef, well seasoned, and topped with a pickle. If there is an option, then I want hot mustard.

Despite the operators, who have the courage to brag about their products, I still say it is hard to find a good hamburger, but I will report back after I have done more field work.

IT'S TRUE: Singer Stan Martin is alive and selling liquor in Victoria. A gentleman of the same name dies, but no address was given in the obituary notice. Since then Mrs. Martin has been getting sympathy cards in the mail and callers wishing her and the family well.

Mr. Martin continues to sing and plug along at his job in the Government Street liquor store.

POLITICAL FARE: Since David Gross offered us his recipe for Trudeau strawberry Victoria, Tory runner Eric Charman has countered with his recipe for strawberry and rhubarb pie. Here goes.

Take a pound of shortening and five cups of flour and add a pinch of salt. In a measuring cup, beat an egg, add an eggcup full of burgundy and top up with water.

Mix this pastry with a minimum of handling and rolling.

The filling is made from fresh rhubarb topped with generous quantities of sugar. A few thin slices of lemon rind help the flavor.

Pre-heat the oven to 425 degrees and bake for 20 minutes then reduce heat to 400 and cook another 40 minutes.

The topping is made from fresh cream which should be whipped with a teaspoon of sugar and a teaspoon of vanilla.

The rose must be removed from the mouth before sampling.

ONE GOING: There is a strong possibility that the city will lose one of its brightest theatre talents. Dorothy Hoole has an offer from Charlotte to join the festival company. She would do two major roles and a supporting role during the six months run.

Right now she is dicker on price but she expects to hear from Alan Land this weekend. It's a great break but theatre fans will be sorry to see her take off.

SOUND OFF: There is going to be another concert at the Victoria Conservatory of Music according to assistant director Rodney Webster. The music will be heard at 613 Pandora at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Performers will be Jan Manning, flute; Barry Moscar, clarinet; Faith Webster, soprano and Robin Wood and Winifred Scott on piano.

There is not much space at the conservatory so it would be well to call and reserve space.

SQUARE DEAL: Bastion Square has a barrow boy but he wants buttons. The cheery Londoner wants to fix himself up with a pearly king coat and is far short of the number of buttons needed.

Even when he gets them he is faced with the mammoth task of doing the sewing. Perhaps Jerry Gosley can help him out. If must be dusting off his Smile Show outfits by now.

Socreds Face Fight

homes and business which will continue right through next Monday with a final pamphlet stuffed through mail boxes, and elaborate arrangements to get voters out to the polls Tuesday.

The organization is being overseen by Michael Lewis, 23-year-old son of federal NDP House leader David Lewis, who refined his methods in the NDP's successful bid for two Burrard seats in 1966 and earlier this year when the party made substantial gains in Ontario.

Apart from the obvious advantage of experience there seems little to choose between the candidates.

The Liberal standardbearer is 45-year-old consulting engineer Sandy Robertson, a former professional pitcher in baseball's minor leagues and UBC basketball star. He talks convincingly of the need for planning in anti-pollution measures as well as construction of highways, bridges and other structures. And he meets the voters easily at coffee parties which the Liberals regard as a tested method of winning votes.

Last time, in Vancouver South the Liberals ran a poor third, trailing Social Credit by some 6,000 votes. But party officials claim their candidate in this campaign, largely because of his sports background, is better known and backed by a much better organization.

Dr. Patrick McGeer, who came out of relative obscurity in 1962 to win the Point Grey by-election from Socreds, thinks the Liberals can do it again here. He said the party has challenged the NDP in its home territory, east of Cambie Street, as never before and made "solid gains everywhere."

"I've canvassed a lot of elections and Social Credit support is simply not there," he says.

Socred George Wainborn, 55, is billed in this election as the candidate with more than 30 years of community service, 10 of them as city parks commissioner. He works as a special events sales supervisor for a soft drink bottling company, and is giving away packets of nasturtium seeds and key chains which read: "Things go better with George."

Government supporters who worry about his apparent lack of campaigning ability, solace themselves by saying, as one minister did Friday, "George has thousands of I.O.U.'s out for services rendered that will bring him votes Tuesday."

The fourth candidate in the by-election is Republican Leonard Sprackman, a 32-year-old accountant who recalls his days as a logger near Alberni, when he plays guitar in a group called the Salmon River Boys quartet. He has driven a tractor around the riding pulling a hayrack which he calls the R-republican bandwagon.

Mr. Sprackman predicts Social Credit won't win but he is philosophical about his own party's vote pulling power. He cooler heads however predict a 500-vote margin of victory.

Liberal victory, in a close three-way fight with the Socreds "coming out on the bottom end."

The voters who will determine the outcome go to the polls starting at 8 a.m. Tuesday. And whatever happens, this is merely the curtain raiser to three more by-elections, one in Oak Bay slated for late July.

There are 43,555 eligible voters, approximately 3,000 more than in 1966.

The principal issues seem to centre on school and hospital construction, low-rental housing, pollution from mills along the Fraser, and, in the east end of the riding, traffic congestion. The government's response, in broad terms, has been to say: "Stick with us and all these things will be solved."

This is summed up in Mr.

Bonnett's statement that the province would have a budget of more than $1,000,000,000 in 1969. Here is how the principal participants officially see the result of Tuesday's vote: Social Credit, victory by 3,000 votes, with the NDP second and the Liberals a poor third. Some

The Victoria Conservatory of Music

A report to the public and in particular to those who assisted in the raising of funds for the Norma MacDonald Piano.

Funds raised in March, 1966 in the amount of $1,700.00 under the auspices of the Centennial Society Co-ordinator, Mr. Gerry Gosley, were, in the words of the Memorial Concert Programme:

"Proceeds to assist the Victoria School of Music to purchase a full concert grand piano for the use and enjoyment of the citizens of Greater Victoria."

The balance of the purchase price of $9,100.00 was subscribed by benefactors of the Conservatory and the piano was duly purchased.

Since that time the piano has been made available for serious performance for the public enjoyment as often as reasonable common sense in the handling of so fine an instrument dictates. This piano has been loaned without charge where required to the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, the Musical Arts Society and the Registered Music Teachers' Association to name but a few.

It is estimated that the piano has been heard in performance by upwards of 40,000 people and has been performed on by more than 200 persons of all ages, outside the Conservatory.

The day to day disposition of the piano is, and will continue to be, in the hands of the Music Director of the Conservatory.

As always in the past this instrument, other pianos, and other instruments will continue to be made available for public use whenever possible.

John Graeme, President.

Cornea Exchange for Loan? No Doctor Would Approve

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to donate a cornea of the eye while living? I would like someone to loan me money to build a home. — L.M.

Forget the whole idea. In the first place, no doctor would ruin a healthy eye to repair another eye. Second, no payment is made for donated eyes or other organs which are used for transplants after the donor's death.

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I may have shingles, although my doctor told me it was something else. I have a terrible itching around my neck with blisters similar to chickenpox. He prescribed some salve but it does not always help. — MRS. E.D.

Shingles is a virus infection attacking a nerve. It is ordinarily a "one-sided disease," because nerves branching out from the spinal cord spread out to the side. There is no nerve which encircles the neck. There is a nerve on each side.

Your Good Health

Hence, itching "around the neck" could not be expected to be shingles. Better rely on your doctor's judgment.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been eaten persimmons since I was a child with never any bad effects. Now some people are saying they are poison and will kill a person. I do not believe a word of it but please let me know real soon so I can eat them or if you say they are dangerous I will destroy them. — MRS. W.A.C.

Madam, you are living proof your friends do not know what they are talking about. Eat your persimmons in peace, but make sure they are ripe, as apparently you have been doing. The "poison" that your friends refer to is a substance in the unripe fruit that is very astringent and would make your lips pretty puckery.

Note to O.S.: No, emphysema is not contagious and is not passed from a victim to a healthy person.

Fierce Two-Day Viet Battle

Reds Use River as Prop

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. marines and warplanes hammered Friday at an elite North Vietnamese force fighting with its back to a river 18 miles south of Da Nang, South Vietnam.

It was the second straight day of furious fighting there and field reports said casualties numbered 130 Communist and 25 U.S. marine dead. This put the toll for two days at 261 North Vietnamese and 51 marines killed.

The battle is part of a mission named Operation Allen Brook launched May 4, aimed at crushing strong North Vietnamese forces threatening Da Nang and Hoi An, provincial capital to the south.

The strength of the North Vietnamese was shown Sunday when about 5,000 of them overran the fortified outpost of Kham Duc, about a dozen miles southwest of the present battle.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Da Nang that the marines had identified Communist troops south of Da Nang as elements of the 308th North Vietnamese Division, crack outfit that took part in the final assault on Dien Bien Phu in the closing stage of the French war in Indochina.

THICK MINE FIELD

The North Vietnamese were fighting from bunkers in a village with their backs to an arm of the Thu Bon River. Despite the heavy pounding, they were still blazing away with rockets, machine-guns and small arms as night fell.

To get into position to attack, the marines were forced to pick their way through a thick mine field laid down on the approaches to the village.

While the marine action in northern South Vietnam was the heaviest reported across the country Friday, it was disclosed by the U.S. command that the month-long anti-Communist drive into the A Shau Valley, begun April 19, has been ended.

FIND STORAGE AREAS

The valley, about 55 miles west of Da Nang, stretches for 25 miles along the border of Laos southwest of the old capital of Hue.

High U.S. commanders said the aim throughout had been to conduct an armed reconnaissance into A Shau to find out what the communists were doing, where their major storage areas were located and to fix them for intensive air strikes.

The U.S. command said U.S. troops killed 726 North Vietnamese in the fighting in and around A Shau during the operation. U.S. losses were placed at 139 killed and 662 wounded.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. Navy pilots reported they destroyed a MIG-17 fighter plane on the ground 145 miles north of the so-called demilitarized zone near Vinh on Thursday. This would be the farthest south that a MIG claim has been made either in air combat or on the ground.

Some informed sources cautioned, however, that it was possible the MIG could have been a mock plane set up as a decoy for American bombers. There have been previous reports of dummy MIGs on North Vietnamese airfields.

Hanoi radio claimed an unmanned U.S. reconnaissance plane was shot down over the North Vietnamese capital Friday. There was no confirmation the city still are permitted.

Romania Gives Red Reminder

PITESTI, Romania (UPI) — Romanian president Nicolai Ceausescu told visiting French President de Gaulle Friday his country wants to increase its co-operation with the west, but not at the cost of loosening further its ties to Moscow.

The Romanian communist leader said he wanted to reply to "certain insinuations claiming that we are presently trying to move away from our traditional friends."

De Gaulle told the crowd "our first duty is to work together for the unity of Europe for its independence, progress, peace and brotherhood."

He said Romania's policy was "to strengthen our links with all European countries irrespective of their regimes to give additional importance to our continent."

Humphrey, U.S. Disagree

ORONO, Maine (UPI)—Vice President Humphrey said Friday the United States and North Vietnam had agreed the Viet Cong could participate in the Paris talks. The state department put out a quick statement denying it.

Humphrey's statement came in response to a question put to him by students at the University of Maine. He was asked if the U.S. would negotiate with the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Replied the vice-president: "It has now been agreed at the Paris meeting that the North Vietnamese can have whomever they want on their side and we can have whomever we want on our side. It's just that simple."

some room to manoeuvre in its apparent effort to obtain a step-by-step matching of concessions—ruling out any gesture to Hanoi without assurance of reciprocity.

The first step might, as chief U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman has suggested, involve agreement to respect that part of the 1954 Geneva accord on Indochina which established the demilitarized zone.

The next step, which could be the key to a total bombing halt, might involve an agreement to guarantee the sovereignty of Laos and Cambodia. Both countries are routes for the infiltration of men and arms into South Vietnam.

Meanwhile, there was some evidence of concern here that the current wave of social unrest in France, already an acute embarrassment to the de Gaulle government, might create an atmosphere in which it would be increasingly difficult to carry on the tense Vietnam negotiations.

Tulips, Two Lips Real Dutch Treat

By RICHARD J. JACKSON
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — You should have seen Prime Minister Trudeau when he opened the capital's internationally famed tulip festival.

The hippies who, from all over the continent, are making Ottawa's streets, flowered, fountained, lawned and patiosed midtown pedestrian shopping mall the "in place" for summer, simply loved it.

Because there was the prime minister, toying with a tulip, talking about "flower power," and waving hello to them.

They waved back, too.

The prime minister was all prettied up in a fetching blue sports jacket, charcoal slacks, blue and white checkered and cut-lined shirt and blue tie.

They handed him a red and yellow tiger-striped tulip and he gave them a show.

First he held it over his heart and looking dreamy, rolled his eyes.

Then he pretended to clasp it in his teeth, just as he did with that rose at the April leadership convention.

Next he posed with it behind his right ear.

Finally, after making like he was going to tuck it into his breast pocket beside his blue puff, he stuck it in his lapel.

All of this done with an amply smile.

The girls — teenyboppers and grande dames alike — found it smotheringly irresistible.

Back for seconds

"He's shy, isn't he?" bubbled one, "and so sweet." (Lady, the new young-at-48, go-go prime minister is a lot of things, but shy he isn't.)

"Oh," he exclaimed catching sight of the grubby band of greasy-haired hippies. "There are some of the flower people."

And turning to the Netherlands ambassador, His Excellency Theodorus Hendrikus Bot, whose Dutch homefolk annually make gifts of tulip bulbs to Ottawa in thanksgiving for the wartime home capital gave their queen, Juliana, the prime minister beamed:

"Over here we believe in flower power, you know."

(Somebody must have told him what's been happening to the Canadian Armed Forces under unification, one of the members of the Canadian Guards Band was heard to mutter.)

Then there was kissing — and this time it could have been fun for the prime minister — for she who got kissed was no sticky, screaming teenybopper, but Miss Tulip Festival, a gorgeous eyeful of blonde loveliness named Helen Hughes, the reigning beauty queen of the nearby Rideau Lakes and the Thousand Islands.

Smack on the lips, yet.

The prime minister came back for "seconds." But this time, chastely, on the cheek.

Like man, can't everyone play prime minister? The "new politics" are so chummy.

Trudeau Defines Quebec Image

OF, from Ottawa
Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday Conservative Leader Stanfield mistakenly identifies Quebec with Premier Daniel Johnson and Marcel Faribault, a former adviser to Johnson who will be a Conservative candidate.

"This isn't Quebec," Trudeau said.

"Quebec is — we will see this in the election — Canadians of all origins, but mainly French, who believe that Canada is their land and their home and they want their representatives in Ottawa to speak for Quebec in international affairs."

Trudeau said Stanfield is having some trouble making up his mind about Quebec's status.

Stanfield had been humiliated because Canada had not replied to France strongly enough on the issue of international education conferences attended by Quebec but not Ottawa.

"Then when we do answer strongly and publish a white paper indicating what our position is, he says we are electorally and we are going to damage Ottawa-Quebec relations," Trudeau said.

"You can't have it both ways."

People who are saying that we are campaigning against Quebec... are people who are identifying Quebec with Mr. Johnson.

"Mr. Johnson is elected by Quebecers to speak for provincial affairs, not federal affairs and certainly not international affairs."

Did Stanfield want Ottawa to lie down while Johnson said he was establishing precedents so that Quebec would acquire international status?

"So what we should do to please Mr. Stanfield is not react to this, say nothing. He (Mr. Johnson) can attack us but we shouldn't defend ourselves. If he attacks us that's fine, but if we defend ourselves that is a feud."

"This is not the way I play politics. If the people want to have us wither away, the federal government, they had better vote for somebody else. They had better not vote for me."

Election Roundup

Montreal?—Same Thing

Prime Minister Trudeau switched from the flower power of Ottawa's Sparks Street mall to helicopter power for a quick change of scene Friday. Only it was more of the same when he flew into Man and His World, the Montreal baby Expo that opened in a drizzle and 45-mile an hour gusts.

Hundreds of youngsters, mostly girls, surged to the official opening dais and surrounded Pierre Elliott Trudeau, kissing him and trying and getting autographs.

Other dignitaries such as Quebec Premier Johnson and Montreal mayor Jean Drapeau looked on in amazement.

"Among other things, we really have to thank the prime minister for taking their minds off the clouds. They didn't seem to care whether it was raining or not," said one civic official.

Other things happened Friday. Things such as:

● The CBC told its radio and television stations to stop playing the pop record Go Go Trudeau.

● Edmonton Centre Conservatives said they are going to vote again for their choice of candidate after a ballot box was stolen and one candidate won by six votes.

● Toronto York Centre candidate Donald Stirling for the Tories, who ran unsuccessfully for the NDP in 1965,

Groos Files

Victoria Liberal incumbent David Groos filed his nomination papers and paid his $300 deposit to the Victoria returning office Friday. He was the first of six candidates in the two greater Victoria ridings to do so.

said he switched parties because "the PCs are the only real alternative to the Liberal party."

● Former Tory defence minister, Douglas Harkness, said unification of the armed forces was accomplished more by revolution than evolution and didn't save taxpayers "a single cent."

● Jes Leo Peplin, who holds two portfolios after the recent cabinet shuffle, said a compromise ought to be found in the tug-of-war between Ottawa and Quebec over international relations.

● Edmonton newspaper columnist Art Evans said he thought he'd received a "victory omen" Thursday a few hours before losing the Liberal nomination for Edmonton East. A long list of supposed supporters who signed a telegram of encouragement lived in Calgary East, however. Patrick Shawchuk won the nomination.

sembled a graduation program. There were no incidents.

● Educator Robert Hutchins, actor Sterling Hayden and his teen-age son, faculty members and students gave brief addresses lauding 866 young men who signed "I won't go" statements.

The campus draft opposition, which organized the rally, ignored stern warnings from Reagan and a ban of the commencement program by the board of regents of the commencement program.

Resources Industries

FROM CP

A Conservative government would maintain tax incentives for resources industries, Conservative Leader Stanfield pledged Friday night in North Bay, Ont.

He said special tax provisions are the most effective means to encourage development in a high-risk resource industry.

The Conservative leader told election meetings here and in Sundridge, 30 miles south of North Bay, his pledge to keep existing tax treatment for the mining and oil industries should not be taken as a commentary upon all proposals of the Carter royal commission on taxation.

But in reassuring resource industries about his party's development policy, Stanfield went slightly further than the Liberal government's position.

The government has promised to keep existing incentives intact only to 1973 pending a wholesale reform of the entire tax system.

In any case the three-year tax holiday for new mines and oil and gas depletion allowances — main elements of the special treatment — now are regarded as in no danger under either a Conservative or Liberal government after the June 25 federal election.

Stanfield also called for the creation of an independent economic research institute, as recommended by the Economic Council of Canada.

The Liberal government's decision to ignore the council's advice was "not the only evidence that the government intends to continue its haphazard policies of economic management."

hollered for help and I called the police."

The baskets were carried to a parking lot in the rear of the building. Gasoline was poured in them and set afire. As the records burned, Moxley said the protesters "just stood around, shaking everybody's hands, patting each other on the shoulder and congratulating everybody."

Police arrested the nine and took them to Baltimore where the FBI assumed control of the case. The FBI was reluctant to talk but said they were trying to sort out the facts to determine what charges should be filed.

Those arrested, in addition to Bergrin and Lewis, included Father Daniel Bergrin, and Thomas Melville, 37. Melville is one of two brothers from Boston ousted from the Maryknoll order after they were expelled from Guatemala, at government request earlier this year, for admitted complicity with anti government guerrilla activities. His wife, Marjorie Lois Bradford Melville, 38, a former Maryknoll sister, was also arrested.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Six thousand University of California students and faculty members dented the wrath of Governor Ronald Reagan Friday by attending a solemn anti-draft "Vietnam commencement."

The hour-long ceremony on the steps of Sproul Hall, highlighted by a pledge by several hundred students to refuse military service, resembled a graduation program. There were no incidents.

Educator Robert Hutchins, actor Sterling Hayden and his teen-age son, faculty members and students gave brief addresses lauding 866 young men who signed "I won't go" statements.

The campus draft opposition, which organized the rally, ignored stern warnings from Reagan and a ban of the commencement program by the board of regents of the commencement program.

Bands Noisy But Enjoyable

The bands of Victoria high school and Franklin high school in Seattle combined Friday evening for a concert program at Victoria high.

It was a bright, varied, enjoyable and, at times, close to a deafening affair. Perhaps the Victoria high school auditorium was never constructed for musical organizations like the Franklin high school stage band, with a fine line of ear-splitting trumpet and percussion that would shake any solid foundation.

But this was the way the band was meant to be and its performances were greeted with loud cheers as well as more conventional clapping.

The Franklin orchestra, which showed a particularly good balance between sections, was also deservedly well received for its excerpts from West Side Story and Symphonie Antique.

Both Victoria and Franklin presented their concert bands, the latter directed by Waldo King.

The selections here were widely varied, ranging from liturgical music for band to the Tijuana Brass and Don't Sleep in the Subway.—B.B.

By BERT BINNY
The Master Sinclair hypnotist show, which opened Friday night at the McPherson Playhouse, could appeal to two perhaps limited sections of the public.

The first section consists of those with plenty of time on their hands — the performance runs quite long.

The second would include those interested more in how hypnosis is produced than in the actual results. Master Sinclair undoubtedly produces results but it takes a long time.

In the instances where his volunteer subjects really succumbed, their antics under his influence were sufficient evidence of the power of mesmerism.

A number of them, for example, played instruments for Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of York and waved back when Her Majesty applauded.

One young man responded most actively when hit by a purely imaginary electric shock and, during intermission, worked valiantly to sell 100 non-existent bags of popcorn to members of the audience.

Master Sinclair is backed by Wee Willie Parker and an vocalist — comedian impersonator Wee Willie Parker and an impressive four-piece stage band.

The show continues this evening and all next week — each evening at 8 p.m. with 2 p.m. matinees — Monday and Saturday.

Christ Short Or Tall?

ROME (Reuters) — Two Italian scholars will debate whether Christ was tall with a beautiful face or short and ordinary-looking.

Vatican archivist Magr. Giulio Ricci, who holds that Christ was five feet, three inches tall, has accepted a challenge to a public debate by Lorenzo Ferri, a professor of sculpture who says Christ was six feet two.

Both men have based their studies on a large linen cloth in Turin Cathedral on which the outline of a body is imprinted and which is believed to be the Holy Shroud in which Christ was wrapped for his burial.

Nurseryman Dash and white Japanese cherry.

For Saanich Nurseryman

Garden Life Full of Fragrance

By DON GAIN

Saanich is a garden to the municipality's nurseryman Edgar Dash and he's doing his best to keep it filled with colorful plants, shrubs and trees.

He came to his job two years ago when parks superintendent Bert Richman was authorized to hire a nurseryman and set up a nursery.

He smiles when he talks about his stock and you can feel in his voice the proprietary air of the true gardener.

"I've been doing it for 28 years," he said Wednesday on a tour of the Saanich nursery. "I can't keep my fingers out of it."

PATIENT MAN

It's the job of a patient man, one who can graft the bud of a Japanese cherry onto the young trunk of a seedling cherry, and slowly watch it grow until it's ready for transplant about five years later.

It's the job of an observant man, one who is aware of the progress of growing things and the time they should be pruned, tilled, fertilized or moved.

SOIL TESTS

It's the job of a meticulous man, one who finds out the best conditions of soil, exposure and moisture, and protects his plants accordingly.

The job can be a fragrant one, Mr. Dash has just planted a tree at the municipal hall which is a native of Northwest Africa. It's called a battenderia cymosa and it smells of pineapple.

He's propagating cinnamon camphora at the Saanich greenhouse on the old Horner property off Palo Alto. It smells of camphor. Right now the daphne are perfuming the air with their heavy fragrance.

AFTER SCHOOL

Mr. Dash learned propagation and landscape gardening from Ed Lohbrunner, well-known Victoria nurseryman, for whom he went to work right out of school. He spent 10 years with the city carrying out his trade before he joined Saanich two years ago.

Less than he raised 20,000 rooted cuttings and seedlings and now there are 245 various ornamental trees and shrubs on inventory including many rare and choice ones.

PERSIAN TREES

Like the Albion Jubilee, a tree from Persia, which will grow into a 25-foot plant with fern-like leaves. This he raised from seed.

Or like the dwarf arbutus which originally came from south Europe or Asia Minor. Mr. Dash shares a dream with his boss, park superintendent Richman.

FOR PUBLIC

It's for a botanical garden, open to the public, complete with labelled plants, shrubs and flowers. "Almost every city in Britain has this sort of thing," Mr. Richman said. "I'd like to lay it out by the municipal hall down by the lake. It could be."

U.S. School Choir Sings Here Twice

The high school choir and string ensemble of Edmonds, Wash., will give two concerts Sunday night. At 7 p.m. they will be heard in Metropolitan Church and at 7:30 p.m. they will sing during Evensong in Christ Church Cathedral.

Lord's Day Act Narrow?

Rest Day Imperative

The concern of the Victoria Presbytery for the Lord's Day Act is not a narrow, legalistic one, the body's new chairman said Friday.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris of First United Church said the presbytery was more concerned that there should be in the country one day of rest and renewal.

The presbytery recently took the stand that the act should be enforced and asked Greater Victoria municipal councils to take action.

"But we recognize that the act might be changed," Mr. Morris said. "I suspect it will disappear before too long."

This does not alter the fact that the community should aim at a day of rest, he said. The interpretation has been too narrow and legalistic, in Mr. Morris' opinion.

"There should be opportunity for worship, family life and recreational activity. We feel there have to be green places for the soul if there is to be healthy family and community life. If every day becomes a weekday, this becomes almost an impossibility."

"My concern is very strongly that we be not hung up on the Lord's Day Act. I doubt it is a true reading of the mind of the community today. But, when I was in Japan, it was rapidly moving to Sunday closing. Basically what they were recognizing, under the pressure of modern life, was the need for a day of rest."

Mr. Morris stated he had no right to pressure other groups but pointed out that the present trend for Sunday opening is eating away the fabric of the community.

"We can't come up with any specific law on it, however. You can't legislate morality."

"I admit to a confusion as to what the law ought to be. But I also recognize that values we have had for hundreds of years are now dying of neglect."

Cleric Wins Scholarship

Rev. John Lancaster of Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Sooke, has been given a $500 scholarship by the Eastern Star for studies at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J.

Mr. Lancaster will take a course there next summer to pastoral counselling of alcoholics.

It will follow a year at Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, N.J., where he will study for his master of theology degree starting this fall.

Mrs. Lancaster and their two children will accompany him. The Eastern Star award was announced Friday by Mrs. Alison Dunn of Sooke.

"Our chapter here, the Juan de Fuca chapter, sponsored Mr. Lancaster for this award," Mrs. Dunn said, "and we're very pleased he got it, because Sooke isn't such a big place. The awards are made every year and the person selected doesn't have to have any connection with the Eastern Star. It's done purely on merit."

"I admitted... we had received a papal blessing before leaving on our trip," Lualdi said. "But I told them—in vain—that we carried no message and were not emissaries for the Vatican."

Had Your Evening Rice?

The fourth rice and tea meal to provide funds for Canadian Aid for Vietnam Civilians will be held at 6 p.m. May 25 in Servetus Hall, 106 Superior.

The meal is sponsored by the Unitarian Church of Victoria and chairman will be the minister, Rev. Arthur Wilmot.

There will be a program of folk singing after the meal. A collection will be taken after the meal and anyone unable to attend may send the money to the church earmarked for CAVC.

Maur Lualdi, the group leader, said the 11 Italians were resting at their Cantos hotel when suddenly police showed up, looked them into separate rooms and started "brain-washing style" questioning.

"I admitted... we had received a papal blessing before leaving on our trip," Lualdi said. "But I told them—in vain—that we carried no message and were not emissaries for the Vatican."

Victorian's Plea

Arabs Need Clothing

By DON GAIN

A Victoria man who serves on the United Nations truce supervision organization in Tiberias, Israel, is organizing a clothing drive to aid Arab refugees.

Major Murray Edwards, PPCL, of 4141 Lark, is not a new hand at charitable work. When he was general staff officer with the Canadian contingent in Cyprus four years ago, he spearheaded a clothing drive for the Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital in Kyrenia. The drive was so successful that donations continued to pour in long after Major Edwards was moved back to Canada.

"The welfare of children is very close to his heart," his wife said Friday from her Seattle home.

In a letter from Israel, Major Edwards said the refugee situation is "a hundredfold worse than anything we had in Cyprus."

"In spite of the excellent and extensive work being done by international agencies the gap between available resources and need never closes and the six-day war only widened the gap."

Clothing of any description, from baby layettes to adult clothing—new or used—is in demand by the refugees. "Even well used clothing will be helpful and appreciated," he added.

Major Edwards has made arrangements with the Canadian Armed Forces to fly clothing parcels from Trenton, Ont., to Nicosia, Cyprus, by service planes.

The Canadian contingent there will receive and hold shipments until the United Nations can pick them up and transfer them by air. The International Red Cross and UN relief agencies will distribute them.

Bulk shipments in cartons or sacks may be sent to Canadian Refugee Clothing Donation, Major M. C. Edwards, c/o CFB Trenton, Ont. Markings should read: "To be forwarded via Flight 307-Nicosia for Cdn. Contingent—UN Pickup."

A simpler and inexpensive way of sending small parcels or letters, if anyone wants to donate money, could be sent parcel post or first class mail. Postage is payable only to New York. The articles or letters are then forwarded with no more postage necessary.

The address is Canadian Donation—Refugee Clothing Major M. C. Edwards, UNTSO (Palestine), APO New York, 09223.

Harmony With Heart

If heartfelt rehearsal means anything, concert of Christ Church Cathedral Co-Operative Kindergarten should be so. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. June 7 in church hall auditorium. Kindergarten, formed in 1947, offers comprehensive programs, with mothers of 3-to-5-year-olds running business side. It's supervised by Mrs. Ivy Anders and her assistant, Mrs. Shirley Macrolle. Slagers in front are Mary, 4, and Janet Brighton, 5. — (Jim Ryan)

'We Must Keep Faith In White Brothers'

Was Late King's Belief Justified?

(Harvey Shepherd, news editor of The United Church Observer magazine, is a former reporter for The Daily Colonist.)

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

"I still have a dream. It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream. I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up, live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.'"

The Rev. Martin Luther King's philosophy was one of reconciliation and brotherhood. It was based on the Christian gospel and deeply rooted in the American dream. At the darkest moments in the freedom struggle, he still told his fellow black men, "We must not lose faith in our white brothers."

But make no mistake. He had faith, but he was tough-minded. He saw the variety of being able to eat at a lunch counter but too poor to buy a hamburger and he saw the close connection between racial injustice at home and racist war abroad.

The commitment which he pursued with zeal and for which he laid his life on the line more than once was ultimately uncompromising and revolutionary, much as his Master's was.

That his commitment was named non-violence should not obscure the fact that it was a kind of struggle, not a kind of submission. He echoed an ancient Christian theme when he said, "Get the weapon of non-violence, the breastplate of righteousness, the armor of truth and just keep marching."

Yes, it would sadden him to know that his memory provoked rioting, looting and arson. But it is also a travesty for anyone without a commitment to revolution to invoke his memory as a sort of talisman for peace and to pervert his philosophy of non-violent struggle into one of passive submission.

The blasphemy of it is, of course, not without precedent in Christian history.

But can non-violence work in this world? Or, when it comes down to what Dr. King's fellow blacks call the nitty-gritty, must it collapse into either violence or submission?

Largely, the question seems to hinge on whether Dr. King's faith in his white brothers was justified.

Many black militants are convinced that non-violence died with Dr. King in Memphis. The weight of violence seems on their side. But a strong faith can still hope that Dr. King's crucifixion will find its resurrection in new white humility before the blacks of the United States, the Indians of Canada, the people of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Victoria Social Worker Set To Start Career in Japan

Black

Life begins at 40 for some people. But others have a way of packing their lives full of meaningful living right from the start.

Like Anne Black, Victoria medical social worker, who is getting set for still another career at age 60.

She'll be heading west the last week in August to take up her duties teaching English for the Church of Christ in Japan. She also expects to do some consultant work in social work.

This isn't Miss Black's first teaching job. She taught elementary school in Saskatchewan all through the Dirty Thirties. She later decided to try another career and went to McGill where she earned her BA and her MA in social work.

Her first social work job was with the Department of Veterans Affairs hospital, Deer Lodge in Winnipeg.

But in between she managed to sandwich in a stint as instructor at the School of Social Work at UBC, and two years in Japan with the Canadian Red Cross.

In Japan she was part of the Commonwealth Red Cross team which worked with the UN. Her duties included welfare work in Tokyo and Kure.

From 1954 to 1956 she worked with the Indore Christian College as director of the school of social work. Indore is in the province of Madhya Pradesh in Central India.

ROYAL JUBILEE

She came to Victoria in 1961 as social worker in psychiatric service at Royal Jubilee Hospital. The beginning of this year she retired.

"But I decided to have one more 'do,'" she said Friday. "Then I can come back to Victoria and really retire—unless I find something else I'd like to do."

NO ENGLISH

She'll be in Japan five years. Her work will be mainly with people who do not speak any English.

Next month she goes to Drew University, Madison, N.J., for an orientation course. The course includes instruction on how to teach English to foreign students, Biblical studies, sensitivity and cross-cultural understanding.

"We'll miss her in Victoria," her minister, Rev. R. J. D. Morris of First United Church said Friday. "The choir will miss her, too."

SANCTUARY SERVICE

There will be a designation service in the sanctuary of the church at 7 p.m. June 2.

Miss Black said there are just under 1,000,000 Christians in Japan out of a population of 100,000,000.

Students Flee Dawson Fire

DAWSON CREEK (CP) — All 15 resident students at Notre Dame high school escaped unhurt when fire ripped through the $500,000 building. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Island Couple Leads Anglican Work Tour

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gardner of Courtenay will lead an Anglican Work Tour to Guyana this summer.

The Gardners recently returned from Sarawak where they spent two years with Canadian University Service Overseas. They are both school teachers and graduates of UBC.

This year the church had more than 400 enquiries from young people in all parts of Canada. Thirty-five have been chosen for work in Jamaica and Guyana.

The purpose of the tour is to send young church workers to overseas communities for work, worship and the development of friendship with members of the church.

The tours supply the medium for working out the principles of mutual responsibility and interdependence by a deeper and deliberate involvement with people of other cultures and other countries.

The program consists of manual work, vacation school leadership, orientation sessions, worship, and recreation. Considered for the work are young persons from 18 to 25 who can give July and August, are willing to engage in physical labor, are prepared to help in an educational program for children and youth, and will give their time to give talks about it after they return.

Healed Woman Tells Of Her Experiences

A woman who was healed of multiple sclerosis will tell of her experience in two talks in Victoria May 28.

Gertrude Ticer of Houston, Tex., will speak to the newly-formed Full Gospel Ladies at a luncheon in the Strathcona Hotel at noon. She will also speak to the Lessons in Living group at 8 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church parish hall.

Vancouver NHL Plans Get Setback Brewery Gives Up, Canucks to Apply

By DOUG MARTIN

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. said Friday it has all but abandoned plans to bring National Hockey League franchise to Vancouver after failure to reach agreement with the minor league Vancouver Westerns.

The Western Hockey League team said its hands were tied because it could not get a three-week period from the NHL to consider three proposals by Labatt. Canucks plan their own NHL application.

The statements were made at separate but consecutive news conferences in a downtown hotel.

NEEDED CANUCKS
N. E. "Peter" Hardy, Labatt president, said the agreement of the Canucks, who own professional hockey rights in Vancouver, was essential before NHL governors would consider an application to transfer the Oakland, Calif., franchise to Vancouver.

Oakland Seals announced Thursday they would make formal application June 10 in New York to transfer their NHL franchise to Vancouver.

Hardy said Friday Labatt would not be represented at the meeting.

TO TRY ON OWN
The Canucks, however, said they would make a full and separate presentation of their own for a franchise at that time.

The Labatt offers to the Canucks will remain open until March 17, 1969, when the company's option to purchase the Oakland franchise expires.

"Our hands were tied in the Labatt's deal," said Canuck adviser Coley Hall.

HAD NO CHOICE
"At the NHL annual meeting last Monday in Seattle, the league refused to allow us three weeks delay in declaring ourselves for next season."

He said the Canucks could have lost their NHL franchise and territorial rights if they had not declared their plans for the 1968-69 season.

Hall said the Canucks could not make a fast decision on the Labatt proposals, made May 7, because the offers were conditional on Vancouver winning an NHL franchise.

The Labatt proposals were:

—Labatt's controlling 51 per cent would be represented by a Canadian company, Labatt would ask Canucks to contribute their franchise to this company at a value of $1,250,000 in exchange for 41 per cent of the controlling company.

After a maximum five years, Canuck owners would have the opportunity to purchase additional equity and thereby assume control of the franchise. Labatt would reduce its equity to a maximum 10 per cent.

—Labatt would make a cash offer of $1,250,000 for the total assets of the Canucks. This would entail an immediate payment of $250,000 and the remaining $1,000,000 to be paid over five years.

Any individual members of the Canuck directorate would be invited to participate in the Canadian controlling company up to a total of $1,250,000 or 41 per cent. Canuck owners would have the option of purchasing additional equity, thereby assuming control of the franchise. Labatt would reduce its equity to a maximum of 10 per cent.

—Labatt would step out of the major position in the franchise bid by offering Vancouver directors the Labatt position in the existing agreement with Oakland. Labatt would assume a minority position equal only to a loan made to Oakland plus all other costs incurred. It totals about $830,000.

The third offer was contingent on the approval of Oakland owners.

CLAIMS SUPPORT
"We were pursuing a franchise on the basis that if the deal was cleared with the NHL and Vancouver, Canuck, we would have had the support of NHL governors in moving the franchise," said Mr. Hardy.

"We had checked the NHL governors for their reactions—no commitments—and the general feeling was that the Oakland franchise would have been moved."

There were only three clubs who did not want to name them, however.

Hall said that after speaking with NHL governors indications are the Canucks have a "real chance" to be in the National League by 1968-70.

Thomas Wins Four Events At Mount Newton School

Bob Thomas paced Viking House to victory Friday with four wins in the annual inter-house track and field meet at Mount Newton Junior High School.

Although Thomas didn't earn one of the 14 records broken in the high jump, shot put, half-mile and mile gave the Viking star the senior boys' aggregate championship.

June Richardson won the girls' senior championship while Lorna McIntosh won the girls' intermediate title. Laurie Spooner and Rene Karamanuk tied for the intermediate boys' championship and Brenda Bowditch and Bill Sandwell won the junior titles.

Vikings won with 320 points, Tartar House was second with 287 and Spartans trailed with 161½.

Edmonton Offers $100,000 For Fall Sports-Car Race

EDMONTON (CP) — One of sports car racing's richest events will be held at Speedway Park Sept. 29 and 30, Park Manager Reg Booth said Friday.

The race will be the fourth in the Canam series and Graham Hill, A. J. Foyt, Mario Andretti and John Surtees are among the drivers expected to try for the $100,000 purse.

In addition, cars have been entered by owners Dan Blocker of the television program Bonanza, comedian Dick Smothers and actor James Garner.

The 2.5-mile road racing circuit is still under construction, but is expected to be finished well in advance of the race.

The Canam series has a schedule of six races, five of which are run at tracks in the United States.

Player Out Front In Colonial Meet

FORT WORTH Tex. (AP) — Gary Player swept through the wind, mist and cold for a 68 Friday and captured the second round lead in the $125,000 Colonial invitation golf tournament.

The 68 coupled with Thursday's par 70 gave him a 36-hole total of 138 and a one-shot edge over Billy Casper, the 60-leader going into the second round.

Casper struggled to a 37 on the front nine, then flashed back into contention with a fine 34 for a 71.

Marty Fleckman, the co-leader with Casper after the 18 holes, was not so fortunate. He posted a 76 for 144.

Ken Still, the happy-go-lucky swinger from Tacoma, Wash., was alone at even par 140 after shooting a 71.

One stroke back at 141 was Johnny Pott, adding a 70 to his first round 71.

George Knudson of Toronto was in a five-way tie for 16th place with 145 on rounds of 75 and 70.

Ann Langdale, Penny May Lead Way

Awesome Power Display Wins for Mt. Doug Girls

Jacquie Farris, Janette Hammer smile over victories

Jumper Fraser tied record

Record for Armstrong

A disappointing day for the Claremont supporters

Maureen Wills wins going up

Led by Ann Langdale, the outstanding girl performer, and Penny May, Mt. Douglas breezed to victory in the girls' team standings of the inter-high track and field meet Friday with an awesome display of power in the "A" flight events.

Mt. Douglas, which won 18 of the 52 events in the meet, including 13 in the "A" flight, won six of the 11 girls' "A" flight events, double the total of runner-up Oak Bay.

Misses Langdale and May each won two individual events, getting one record each, and played strong parts in the two relay victories.

RECORD TIME

Miss Langdale, holder of the Canadian midjet record for the 440-yard run—and, according to meet referees Don Steen, the head coach at Simon Fraser University, the only woman to clock a 56-second quarter this year—won the 440 in the record time of 58.5 seconds, one second faster than the mark set by Colleen Davies of Oak Bay in 1966.

Miss May, who took the long jump in 16 feet, three-quarter inches, also eclipsed a record held by Miss Davies, winning the 80-metre hurdles in 12.4 seconds. Miss Davies, who finished third Friday, held the old mark of 12.8.

The "A" 220-yard dash was an all-Mt. Douglas affair with Miss Langdale missing the record by two-tenths of a second as she outraced Miss May.

EASY RELAY WINS

Mt. Douglas' power in the relays was unapproachable with both the 440-yard and 880-yard teams winning well in the clear. The school's "B" teams placed fifth in both events to give the girls' team 58 points in the relays.

One other record was set in the "A" flight. Leslie Kirkham and Jill Trelawny of Oak Bay staged a brilliant duel in the 880-yard run with Miss Kirkham taking the record of 2:50.5 in a photo finish.

Heather Wood of Mount View, last year's aggregate champion, came back after some disappointing times in the qualifying trials to capture the 100-yard dash over Vicki Hammond of Victoria, who closed strongly after a slow start, and Nancy Love of Oak Bay.

SINGLE VICTORIES

The "A" field events were a wide-open affair with no competitor earning more than one victory.

Janette Hammer of Victoria won the shot put with a toss of 31 feet, 10 1/2 inches, while Oak Bayites Maureen Wills and Jacquie Farris won the high jump and discus events, respectively.

Three records were set in the "B" flight while two new events were held—the 80-metre hurdles and 880-yard run.

Rewarding Moment for Winning Coach

"My most rewarding moment in six years at Mt. Douglas," was the comment of coach Stan Gill after his team won the inter-high school track and

Fines Elimination 'Costly'

Changes in the Motor Vehicles Act which substitute confiscation of licences for fines, are good, but they lose thousands of dollars for local governments, Vancouver Island municipal officers were told Friday.

The Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities, in a convention here, agreed with Nanaimo alderman H. E. Jenkinson, and will urge provincial amendments be abandoned and the system of imposing fines be re-instituted.

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen disagreed. He felt the new system, under study by B.C.'s attorney-general's department and operating on a trial basis on Vancouver Island, was essentially good.

Ald. Jenkinson said that the loss to Nanaimo in fines would amount to $30,000.

If any municipality on Vancouver Island is going to lose heavily it will be Victoria, said Mayor Stephen.

Nonetheless, he felt the confiscation principle was good, and would reduce the slaughter on highways and should not be eroded.

The disposal of outworn automobiles was a matter of concern to the more than 50 delegates at the meeting. They also agreed with a Nanaimo resolution which put the onus on the provincial government to remedy the unsightly situation.

The province was urged to act in co-operation with regional and municipal governments to find graveyards for the thousands of car bodies which currently disfigure highways and outskirts of built-up areas.

It was a valid concern, said Saanich Mayor Hugh Curdie. As it now is the non-offending property owner is paying for the violator.

Victoria's Ald. Robert Baird was re-elected chairman of the association.

Cycle Accidents Injure Three; One in Hospital

A hit-run accident involving a boy on a bicycle and two separate motorcycle collisions resulted in injuries to three persons Friday.

No one was critically injured and only one, a young man whose motorcycle hit a tree while being towed by a car, was detained at hospital.

Oak Bay police said the 23-year-old motorcyclist was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a severe leg cut after an accident at Chacoer and Elgin. His name was withheld pending notification of relatives.

Police said his motorcycle was not functioning and was being towed by a friend's car when he somehow lost control and hit a tree.

During the afternoon, 13-year-old Dale Bender, 229 Cadilliac, received an injured shoulder when a car cut in front of him at Tillikum and Nicola and struck his bike, Saanich police said.

The car failed to stop. There were no witnesses other than the boy, who was unable to describe the car. He was released after treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

William Kellow, 16, of 771 Haldiburton, was treated and later released from Royal Jubilee Hospital after his motorcycle collided in front of his home with a car driven by Darwin Garfield of 4945 Lochside.

The youth received cuts and bruises.

Destroyers Visit

Orphans To See Seaslug

Two Royal Navy missile-armed destroyers, equipped with the latest in underwater detection gear for anti-submarine warfare, will arrive at Esquimalt on Thursday for a week-long visit.

They are the HMS Fife and HMS Glamorgan, 550-foot sister ships which carry approximately 800 officers and men between them.

Each ship is equipped with missile launchers and helicopters used for detection and destruction of submarines.

Because the visit is of an operational nature, open house programs are not likely, the navy said.

However, the ships will have some very important visitors—children.

There will be special parties for children May 25. Guests will include about 125 orphans, underprivileged and retarded children from Greater Victoria.

Rum Issue Recalls War Today

The old swears of the 15th Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, meet at 8:30 p.m. today in the Ingham Hotel for their 52nd reunion.

It is expected about 50 survivors of the First World War unit will return to down their customary rum issue, from as far away as Vancouver, Seattle, and California.

Labor Curb Urged

DUNCAN — A rallying cry to businessmen to stop labor from "taking over," has been sounded by a newspaperman who is retiring to become a minister.

Will Dobson, known for his work in the school board, the chamber of commerce and as editor of the Cowichan Leader, made his farewell speech to the chamber here.

He said he is concerned with deteriorating labor-management relations.

He claimed his own newspaper lost many subscriptions a few years ago, when the paper expressed opinions on a dispute between the IWA and a sawmill.

Mr. Dobson said, "If people cannot speak out what they are thinking, things are in a sorry state of affairs. If we are going to be afraid to express our convictions, we can just sit back and see labor takeover."

"This is a highly unionized town," he said. "And I am not against it but labor is not letting the grass grow under its feet and is getting stronger all the time."

McCarthy Rejects Pullout

From UPI

Somewhat angrily, Eugene McCarthy said no Friday to Robert Kennedy's suggestion that he drop out of the race and support Kennedy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in a stop-Humphrey drive.

Such a suggestion, McCarthy said comes "close to the edge of a kind of arrogance." He said he intends to "go all the way to Chicago and beyond—and no concessions and no compromises."

Store Your Furs with EATON'S

As you would keep an exquisite diamond in a vault, because you treasure it . . . so should you keep your precious furs in vault storage! For this is a pampering process which retains the lustrous quality of your most treasured possessions.

From the moment our driver picks up your furs they couldn't be in safer hands. They're thoroughly checked for moths, dust and grit. Finally, deposited in our "refrigerated" vaults where they are rigidly controlled until you require them.

Through many years of successfully handling tens of thousands of coats, Eaton's Custom Cleaning has developed special cleaning methods and types of glasses suitable to every type of fur. And, of course, there is Eaton's Sanitizing process which leaves your coat hygienically clean.

If your coat seems old-fashioned or worn out in spots, bring it in to Eaton's Designer-Furriers for an expert opinion. They are close to the current fashion picture and can advise you on whether re-styling is possible . . . perhaps suggest making it into a jacket. Eaton's Designer-Furriers will repair too! Next to diamonds, let's face it . . . a girl's best friend is her fur . . . treat it with care.

Three-Ocean Voyage Ends Today

A two-year voyage that took a young husband and wife through three oceans ends officially at 10:30 a.m. today when the two-masted Tahiti ketch Povindah docks at Victoria's Inner Harbor.

John Manning, a former Victoria newsman, and his wife Pat, sailed their 30-foot boat through the canals of Europe to the Mediterranean, crossed the Atlantic and visited the Canaries, Barbados, Venezuela, the Dutch East Indies, Ecuador, the Galapagos, the Marquesas and Honolulu.

Speedster Settles for Silent Stay

Speedy USS Marathon, capable of speeds up to 50 knots, arrived at HMC Dockyard Friday for weekend visit. American navy gunboat was commissioned May 11 at Tacoma and carries crew of 24 officers and men, commanded by Lieut. L. W. Waterman. It will not be open for public inspection before returning to sea Monday.—(Kinsman)

Two Ministers Defect

Crisis Shakes Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S (CP) — Justice Minister Alex Hickman of Newfoundland assumed the additional portfolio of health Friday, a few hours before the legislature approved an economic development plan which precipitated the resignation of the former health minister.

Premier Joseph Smallwood—whose 13-year-old Liberal administration was severely shaken Tuesday by defection of health minister John Crosbie and Clyde Wells, minister-out-portfolio—announced the move as the House reassembled in the afternoon.

Hickman had been sworn into his new post Friday morning, the premier said. But he added, the 43-year-old lawyer probably would not carry the double portfolio long.

PREVIOUS REPORTS

This added to previous reports indicating a major cabinet shuffle may be in the offing.

Later, during committee study, members rejected a motion by Wells which would have amended Clause 6 of a bill to ratify a government agreement for development of an oil refinery in eastern Newfoundland.

This clause, permitting up to $5,000,000 interim government financing of the project, brought about the resignations.

Wells' amendment would have set the ceiling on interim financing at $1. It was defeated 22-4, with the Liberals lining up against Crosbie and Wells.

— sitting now as independent Liberals — and the two Conservatives present.

The bill subsequently received third reading, final approval, and now requires only royal assent to become law.

There had been speculation Thursday night the house might adjourn its spring sitting Friday.

NEXT WEEK

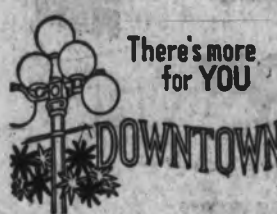

It adjourned only until Wednesday and is expected to clean up outstanding business next week.

The revolt by Crosbie, 37, and Wells, 30, evolved over the personal leadership and policies of the premier, especially in economic development. They also accused him, in dealing with them, of acting like the "one master" of the cabinet.

SIDE EFFECTS

Side effects included the premier's charges of improper conduct levelled against Crosbie and withdrawn Thursday after vehement denials by the ex-minister and his family.

The premier had accused him of trying to use his influence to get construction contracts for family firms.

Canadian Car Trade Deficit Slips

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States-Canada automotive trade agreement has increased trade and brought benefits to industry, labor and consumers in both countries, President Johnson said in a message to Congress on Friday.

Johnson's message accompanied the annual report to Congress on the 1965 agreement. He said the figures in the report are "dramatic proof of what can be accomplished when friends and neighbors choose the path of co-operation."

The report said Canada's automotive trade deficit with the U.S. has declined steadily under the agreement and amounted to $439,000,000 last year.

Detailed figures also show the differential in Canadian and American prices has shrunk at the factory level but taxes and "other factors" continue to keep the cost about nine per cent higher for Canadian purchasers of popular models.

Johnson did not mention the reduced U.S. surplus—a sore point with agreement critics. Democratic Senator Albert Gore of Tennessee read into the congressional record Wednesday an opinion that the accord is "probably the most disastrous bilateral agreement in U.S. history."

Two-way trade last year is listed at more than $3,300,000,000 compared with $2,200,000,000 in 1966. U.S. sales to Canada, mostly in parts, amounted to $1,800,000,000 last year against $654,000,000 in 1964.

Imports from Canada, mostly now in assembled vehicles, are listed at $1,500,000,000 against a slim $75,000,000 in 1964.

On the basis of the figures given in the report the U.S. surplus was $300,000,000. That compares with the 1964-66 U.S. profits in the auto trade with Canada—$383,000,000; $682,000,000; and $527,000,000. Part of the decline in the U.S. surplus is attributed to lower North American auto sales. Production in the U.S. last year of 9,000,000 autos was nine per cent lower than in 1966 and well below the 1965 record of 11,100,000 units.

Canada's production has increased in each of the three years of the agreement and totalled 947,000 last year against 902,000 a year earlier.

Immigrant Cut Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration department's advertising budget has been slashed by about 65 per cent, presaging a sharp reduction in immigration this year.

One projection says the 1968 total could go as low as 140,000 or as high as 190,000, with a mid-way figure favored. No official estimates are made.

However, department sources don't expect the 1968 total to come close to last year's 222,876 arrivals, the second highest annual number since 1915.

The department Thursday tied low 1968 first quarter figures to a reduction in employer demand in Canada. At the same time, other federal statistics showed a higher level of unemployment than in 1967.

The cutback on advertising began last fall and was accelerated by a clamp on government spending during the winter.

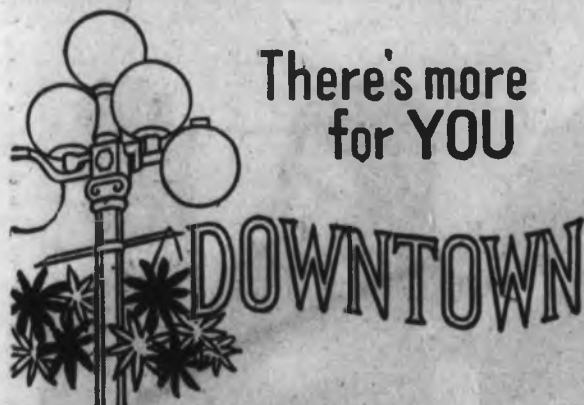

Immigration advertising is done in the United Kingdom and continental Europe only and first quarter 1968 figures showed a sharp drop in immigration from these sources.

The over-all European figure to March 31 was 24,123, compared with 33,096 in the 1967 first quarter.

The advertising budget for all Europe in the 1967-68 fiscal year was $28,000. It has been reduced to $180,000 for the year that began April 1.

The amount is divided between the United Kingdom, where $90,000 will be spent, and continental Europe.

This year's $90,000 budget was described as enough to maintain a low-key campaign to keep Canada in the British eye.

YOKOSUKA (AP) — HMCS Grilse first Canadian submarine to visit Japan, arrived Friday on a 10-day operational visit.

Quake Toll At 50

TOKYO (UPI) — The death toll climbed to near 50 early today from disastrous earthquakes in northern Japan that caused heavy damage to the U.S. air force base at Misawa.

An official tally said the casualty toll stood at 44 killed, 246 wounded and six missing. More than 1,200 homes were destroyed or heavily damaged, and thousands of refugees camped out in makeshift tent cities.

HARD-HIT

Damage estimates ranged up to $100,000,000, including $10,000,000 at the Misawa base—one of the biggest U.S. air installations in Asia.

A spokesman for the 5th U.S. Air Force said 29-Americans suffered minor injuries at Misawa in the quakes Thursday. The tremors severely damaged the base tower, but the men in it fled when the first shocks were felt and there were no injuries.

WATER LINES

Some base homes were heavily damaged, and water lines burst.

As the casualty toll rose, part of the emphasis shifted from the search for bodies to relief and reconstruction.

Japanese relief agencies aided by American military airlifts rushed food and water into stricken areas. U.S. Ambassador Alexis Johnson pledged full American support and co-operation.

Shoot-In Aimed At U.S.

OXBOW, Sask. (CP) — Jeanne McGuire, 23, vice-president of the Saskatchewan New Democratic youth, says she is organizing a symbolic "shoot-in" of United States Air Force B-52 bombers that fly over the province.

In a telephone interview from her home at Oxbow, about 145 miles southeast of Regina, she said a group known as the Colonel J. Sutherland Brown volunteer brigade will fire blank barrages June 23 as the aircraft pass overhead.

The "shoot-in" will take place at Broadview, Sask., about 100 miles east of Regina. Miss McGuire, a political science student at the University of Saskatchewan, Regina, said the group is named after a Canadian army officer who wrote a paper in the 1920s outlining a plan of attack by Canadian forces on the United States. The plan was not adopted.

Miss McGuire said the blank barrage would be a protest against the most clearly visible sign of dominance by the United States over Canada. She said the provincial New Democratic youth has endorsed the protest but is not actively involved.

Taxi Sinks, Four Escape

The operator of a water taxi and his three passengers escaped unharmed Friday when the craft sank off Port Washington, Pender Island.

The taxi was reported owned by Robert Sauerberg of Mayne Island and the mishap was reported by the ferry Pender Queen.

The four persons aboard the taxi were said to have scrambled ashore without difficulty.

Bazaar Too Bizarre

By NANCY BROWN

An attempt to inject some gaiety into holiday merchandising was strangled by City Hall red tape Friday afternoon.

Bazaar-like stalls erected on Douglas Street by F. W. Woolworth's caught the disapproving eye of Ald. Percy Frampton.

Soon after there was a huddle between city hall officials and Woolworth's manager K. J. Firth, and the stalls were removed.

"It seems that Woolworth's got a little out of line—perhaps carried away by merchandising zeal," commented city manager Dennis Young.

"There is, of course, no provision in city bylaws for this sort of thing and they were told that it couldn't continue. The manager agreed to remove the displays," he said.

Mr. Young said Chinese Canadian merchants have been displaying their merchandise on the streets for years, but said they don't do it in the downtown district.

WAY OF LIFE

"Their produce displays have become a sort of a way of life in Victoria, and I don't think anyone would want to stop them even if they are, technically violating city ordinances."

Mr. Firth said he was disappointed that the store was not allowed to sell its wares in the street.

"I think the public was happy with the idea—we had comments from several citizens who liked it, and no adverse comment."

FOR HOLIDAY

"We thought since it is a holiday weekend this would add a little gaiety. City Hall thinks differently and the matter is ended," said Mr. Firth.

"Other stores in town do this type of thing and nothing is said. They are allowed to exist."

"However, I guess that's not for me to question," he added.

HONKY TONK

Ald. Frampton disagreed with the "little gaiety" description. "It was a regular honky tonk kind of thing," he said.

There were bleaches, bottles, play shoes, and all kinds of things on stalls alongside the street, and also two cash registers, according to Ald. Frampton.

"I wouldn't really have minded if there had just been a few plants and flowers, but I'm against a whole retail store out in the street," he said.

BUS STOP CONFUSION

Ald. Frampton pointed out that there is a bus stop on Douglas Street outside the store.

"There was a lot of confusion with people trying to get on buses, and others looking at the merchandise."

"We may not notice a few flowers being sold on the street," he said, "but it makes quite a difference when it's this kind of merchandising."

Mainland Bishop New Metropolitan

Bishop Godfrey Gower, 67, of New Westminster was unanimously chosen as Metropolitan of British Columbia at a special meeting of the six bishops of the Anglican province of B.C., in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, Friday.

His title will be Archbishop of New Westminster and Metropolitan of British Columbia. He has been bishop of New Westminster since 1961.

He will take the place of Archbishop Harold Sexton, 79, who has resigned the post after 16 years as metropolitan.

On his return to Victoria from the meeting Friday night, Archbishop Sexton said a metropolitan needs the judgment which is largely born of experience.

"I believe Bishop Gower is well qualified in this respect as he has been in other directions, indeed in other directions."

"I am very glad to hand over the responsibilities of the office to him and he is assured of my prayerful good wishes for his future success and happiness."

The installation will take place on the eve of the new archbishop's synod in his church, Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, at 8 p.m. June 6. Archbishop Sexton will perform the installation.

Ship 'in Distress' Just Smokestack?

Pass. Don't let this get around, but there was a possibility late Friday night that a supposed ship in distress was in reality a harmless American smokestack.

This, at least, was the way the U.S. Coast Guard was beginning to see it.

First one Victoria resident, then another, and another reported to police of seeing red rockets fired into the air somewhere over the water off Ten Mile Point.

The U.S. Coast Guard searched the entire area by helicopter but could find nothing.

They reported it was an exceptionally clear night and that people seeing the red flashes from Ten Mile Point were looking directly at Anacortes, Wash., where a smokestack was belching bursts of sparks into the sky.

Salute In Song

IODE's salute to Queen Victoria had strength of 600 voices Friday as Greater Victoria school children gathered on steps of legislative building to form massive choir. Leading them is Harry Bigby, superintendent of music for Greater Victoria school board. (Jim Ryan)

Liberal Spending 'Profligate'

Chatterton's First Shot Aimed at Economics

Conservative candidate George Chatterton rapped the Liberal government Friday for its "profligate spending" and took Prime Minister Trudeau to task for not giving a throne speech.

Mr. Chatterton, who has been MP for Esquimalt-Saanich for seven years, was opening his campaign headquarters at 3200 Douglas. About 175 persons attended his speech.

"It has now become obvious that Mr. Trudeau is desperately trying to avoid discussion of the real issues in this election," he said, "namely, the slowing growth of the economy, spiraling inflation, sky-high interest rates and the housing crisis, and growing unemployment."

HIS DUTY

The new prime minister had a duty to present a throne speech to tell Canadians what legislation he has in mind, and he should have presented a budget to indicate his financial policies.

"Since he failed to present these we must assume that the same Liberal policies still apply, the policies that have brought this country to its present state of unrest and dissatisfaction."

THREE IN WEST

The creation of 14 portfolios for Quebec in the Trudeau cabinet compared to three for the four western provinces also drew criticism from Mr. Chatterton.

But the "profligate spending" evoked his greatest ire.

He said it was a direct cause of the "fantastic interest rates and inflation which steals from the poor and from those on fixed incomes."

WASTE FIGURES

As an example of waste he gave the increase of civil service wages from 1966 to 1967—$146,000,000. They increased an additional $142,000,000 the following year, he said.

Other figures Mr. Chatterton gave:

● From 1963 to 1968 the civil service payroll increased 60 per cent and personnel increased by 40,000.

● The department of consumer and corporate affairs started in 1967 with a budget of $7,750,000. Its budget for the current year is $8,750,000.

● Manpower and Immigration grew from $179,000,000 to $403,000,000 in five years.

● CBC in two years increased expenditures by $44,500,000.

"Now you know why the cost of living went up 4.6 per cent in 1966 and is now going up at the rate of almost 6 per cent per annum," he said.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

"Now you know why our economic growth rate has been only 2 to 2½ per cent since 1966, while the Economic Council considers a minimum of 4 per cent essential."

"Now you know our productivity is 14th among 14 western nations."

Mr. Chatterton said Robert Stanfield had announced policies for the Conservative party on housing and pollution control.

"Before long you will have a complete statement of Conservative policies."

Victoria Won't Nominate Sacred Chief Ignored

Balky Victoria Social Crediters were turning a deaf ear Friday night on a call from their national president for a full slate of candidates in the June 25 federal election.

Although national president Herbert Bruch said there will be a nominating convention in the Victoria riding next week, the Victoria president denied it.

On Monday night 63 members attended a nomination meeting and approved an executive recommendation not to nominate a candidate at this time.

Thursday night Mr. Bruch told a nominating convention in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands riding that another Victoria convention will be held next week.

He repeated an earlier statement that Social Credit will run candidates in all 23 B.C. ridings.

Victor Smith, president of the Victoria Federal Social Credit Riding Association denied Friday that another nominating convention will be called in Victoria.

He refused to make any further comment.

Frank Hunter, the Social Credit candidate in the last federal election, said only Mr. Smith, as president, could make a statement on the nomination.

He refused any further comment.

For Bennett Picketing

Unionist Apologizes

An incident involving Premier Bennett at Vancouver Tuesday night has prompted a Victoria labor official to request the censure of fellow unionists.

Edward Callan, international representative in British Columbia and Alberta for the International Union of Operating Engineers, has asked his Canadian director to take steps against officers of the Vancouver local involved.

He has also sent a letter of apology to Premier Bennett and copies to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, Deputy Labor Minister William Sands and R. H. Hill, of Toronto, Canadian director of the union.

Premier Bennett, Mr. Peterson and Mr. Sands went to a Vancouver high school for a political rally, but found a picket line of operating engineers from Local 796.

Mr. Callan, who was out of the province at the time, said he learned later those involved in the rally had decided to meet on the school lawn instead of going inside.

A truck bringing chairs for the occasion was halted by pickets and the rally was moved to a nearby field.

"This never would have happened if I had been here," Mr. Callan said Friday night.

He said he was apologizing to

Mr. Bennett on behalf of his union and expressing his personal regrets for any inconvenience that resulted.

"I have requested the censure of the officers in Vancouver who were responsible for the lack of diplomacy," he said.

According to Mr. Callan, the picket line should have been withdrawn under the circumstances.

Fair's Machine Puffs Incense

Light flashes at you in eerie sequence. The walls seem to throb and move, first closing in on you, then receding.

Slow, throbbing music is playing somewhere far off, but it seems to be all around you, too. Incense clouds the warm air. People seem to move in jerky slow-motion, like an old-time movie.

LIGHT SHOW

This is a description not of a drug experience, but of the Mindbender Light Show now in operation at the Jaycee Fair.

Les Vogt, owner, manager, and builder of the psychedelic light show, is happy with the success he has been enjoying at the Victoria fair, the show's first appearance.

"We've been doing very well," he said.

KIDS LOVE IT

"Some of the older people don't like the light show, but the kids love it."

The light show is startling in its simplicity. A strobe light flashes from the ceiling of an otherwise completely dark wooden building. Color organs—lights that vary in intensity with the music—come on periodically. Every half-hour a fog machine fills the building with artificial fog and sweet incense. Taped music by a popular Vancouver band, The Collectors, is played.

However, the light show is only a sideline for Mr. Vogt, who says his full-time occupation is booking and promoting of Vancouver bands.

Couldn't Draw Straight Line

Career Started at 70

By DON GAIN

Victoria may have its own Grandma Moses.

She's Iris Aldorf, 710 Vancouver, and although she's going on 80, she's only been painting for 10 years.

It all started with a visit to the fortune teller at the old Nutshell restaurant.

"She told me I had a hidden talent—painting," Mrs. Aldorf said Friday. "I said I couldn't draw a straight line. The fortune teller told me to go home and see what I could do. I've been painting ever since."

"I had a few lessons from Charlie Baker here in Victoria. He's dead now."

Mrs. Aldorf paints in watercolors and has given pictures to worthy causes over the years. This year she painted a picture of dogwood blossoms for the Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal.

Capt. Hugh Tilley picked up the watercolor Friday. It will be sold and the proceeds will go to the fund drive, which has reached $51,636.

Mrs. Aldorf has other talents. She does needlework and "a little bit of everything."

When she lived on Robert Street opposite the Rainbow

Sea Cadets she started giving cups for the Cadet of the year with the best record in courtesy and deportment.

She goes to Mount St. Mary's almost every day and does what she can to help the patients.

It's been a long time since she came to Canada from her birthplace in Berwick—on-Tweed, Scotland.

A widow now, she has a son in the Chicago area and a daughter near Seattle. She has no other relatives here, but lots of friends.

She was given a centennial medal in 1958 for her good works.

Sara Keeps Tabs

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

NEW YORK — Sara McWhorter's job is keeping tabs on how girls look all over the world. It keeps her busy six days a week and away from home four to eight weeks a year while she checks on the big European cities.

Still in her mid-twenties, Sara is one of the youngest buyers in town for a big, retail store. She's just back from a swing around Italy, France, England, and the Scandinavian countries, where she bought lots of the fall fashions for Bonwit Teller's Expresso Shop.

Monday, Sara was wearing a long-sleeved, white, crepe body shirt from Paris, tucked into a red wool mini skirt she bought in Rome, dark nylon tights, navy blue Hermes shoes with red lizard straps and some American gold chains draped around her neck.

But Sara won't look like that for long. She'll soon be trying out what she thinks is the hottest new international fashion, maxi-culottes.

Maxi-culottes are actually any length from mid-calf to the ground. They are small through the top and flare in wide, trouser legs from the hips.

Sara McWhorter likes them in tweed for daytime with a fitted, hip-length suit jacket. For evening she plans to wear them in both velvet and in crepe with a sleeveless vest.

"They're already wearing them in Paris," she says. Actually, all that sculptor Niki de Saint-Phalle brought with her when she visited here a few weeks ago were the maxi-culottes made for her by Marc Bohan.

"I'm certainly going to wear my skirts longer for fall," Sara says. "I didn't feel like it last year but I certainly do now."

It's a backwards answer to the question at least two dozen women must have asked me last weekend. Whether they ever wore it, or thought of wearing it, all were avid to know whether the mini skirt is in or out.

Another big, new fashion is the longer sweater, according to Sara. It is at least hip length and fitted in at the waist with cable stitching. The skimpy, poor-boy sweater is a thing of the past.

The look is pretty much the same everywhere, Sara says. "There's a certain group in every big city now that wears just about the same clothes. The girls are between 20 and 30 and usually have jobs."

"French girls are the best dressed, though, if you're just talking about the people you see on the street," she says. "They're all wearing those sweater dresses. In London and Copenhagen the girls may go to more extremes, but the average is higher in Paris."

She expects to change her makeup by fall, too. In England they're already wearing black-red nail polish and lipstick. It's all part of the broad-shouldered, 1940s look that will come through in the English fashions.

Many women are allergic to the thought of a '40s revival. It seems too soon to bring back fashions that, what with the fabric restrictions and war silhouettes, were never charming at best.

To Sara and her pals, the whole idea of separates, the '40s favorites, comes as a great, new lark. "The fun of fall will be putting things together. Belts will be terribly important and so will those big scarfs, wound around the neck and tucked in at the neck of a shirt."

The European boutiques are all changing, she observes. The French, especially, are becoming much more professional. The clothes, though, are less original and amusing as the shops grow slicker.

"There used to be a lot of garbage in the boutiques, and it was such fun to poke through," she says.

Her first job was at Bonwit Teller, where she came fresh from Knoxville, Tennessee, and college. In the store she spent her first six months packing and repacking blouses in the basement. "I had majored in child psychology and thought I was terribly bright. I cried a lot that first year."

She's shedding no more tears nowadays over her career.

Locked Doors Cancel Sale

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Crowds began to gather hours before the opening of a sale at a department store, but at 9 a.m. the doors didn't open. During the night, the store's power failed and repairmen couldn't get the lights on in time. The sale was cancelled.

How many years younger do you think your face should look to make you really happy?

When a woman uses 2nd Début to make her face look two years younger, it would be said that she had it not too lately. And if she uses it to shed only one or two birthdays, this too would be a waste of her time, energy and money. Any woman about to depart to a corner of facial rehabilitation with 2nd Début should first decide just how youthful her face should be made to look to best serve her present purpose. Once this decision is made, there remains little to do beyond applying 2nd Début slightly according to directions and demonstrating to one when the desired state of more youthful looking is reached.

WHAT 2nd DÉBUT IS:

2nd Début is a radiant departure from the oily creams and lotions that have been the basis of skin care during the past century. It is a scientific development based in the demonstrable fact that skin's appearance ages through dryness, and that the skin's cells are also the driest. 2nd Début demonstrates to women of all ages that dryness can be relieved continuously and very long degrees of youthful appearance re-established by maintaining the water balance of skin at normally required levels. 2nd Début, therefore, contains neither oil nor grease. Instead, it is an aqueous emulsion of the ingredients known to be the ones employed by nature to keep human skin adequately moist to prevent dryness and premature aging.

As contained in the emulsion 2nd Début, this ingredient (known as CEP) need only to be applied to the surface of facial skin. The water-moisture level of the skin automatically rises. Progressively, the skin's surface appears smoother and more youthful as lines become less evident and some completely disappear. These around the eyes, the nose and mouth are usually among those that respond earliest to regular nightly applications of 2nd Début. The tone of the entire face and neck is at once lifted and given the appearance of fresher form as you near the end of your first 2nd Début course in youth renewal. From that point on, occasional applications of 2nd Début with its rich CEP 600 content help facial freshness to remain and facial smoothness to continue to remove those familiar premature age lines that plagued you before your friendship with 2nd Début began. And, at some later indefinite time, you may begin another course of nightly 2nd Début applications, with assurance it will be fully as effective as the routine just completed.

2nd Début is made in two potencies. The first contains CEP 600 and is designed for the woman with early wrinkles; that is, the younger woman who has started to line before her time.

The double-potency CEP 1200 was formulated for the face over forty; or for the impatient lady who wants visible results without delay—or for you if your facial lines are deep. It should smooth age lines faster. In only a few days you see a marked change.

Now, to prepare your skin to receive these treatments, 2nd Début Liquid Cleanser was developed. Its formula is dynamic. Its application is different, for it is to be applied in a thin layer over your face and throat. Then rinse off with cool water. Now your skin is clean, and clear. Really clean!

For a perfect complexion instantly, make 2nd Début Liquid Make-up with CEP 600. Covers blemishes and imperfections so completely and with such a natural look no one suspects it of being make-up. Helps overcome skin dryness, too. Six shades, each a natural skin tone. From Pale to Golden Tan.

Finally, 2nd Début Body & Hand Lotion (with CEP 600) is a most welcome sensation in body and hand grooming. Imparts a feeling of luxury to the body that makes you regard yourself with extra importance. And its CEP 600 richness quickly defeats the cause of chapping and roughness with its deep moisturizing of your hands. This is a dual-purpose balm with an immediate and pleasurable effect.

Girl Guide Efforts Aid Pearkes Clinic

Centennial projects which Brownies, Guides and Rangers in the Greater Victoria area undertook during 1967 have raised a total of $355.

The money has been set aside to purchase a piece of equipment for the future. G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children to be built on a site near the Queen Alexander Solarium.

The piece of equipment will be chosen at the discretion of the clinic administrator, Mrs. M. McClung. The cheque will be handed over to her by a deputation of the Guide movement on a date and occasion still to be decided.

During Centennial Year the girls of the three Victoria Divisions spent their spare time organizing a group and individual functions to earn extra money for this special project.

In the Camosun Craigflower division the Brownies held a bazaar, made and sold items individually. They also did small jobs and errands for neighbors and at home. The money was collected in decorated homemade boxes and delivered to Mrs. H. A. Winnett, division commissioner.

Guides in this division earned money through home-help services and they carried on their project making enough extra money to build and paint a bus shelter. A Guide contributed a day's pay as a nurse; Rangers held a money raising party and a car wash.

Brownies in the Lady Douglas division sold marmalade which they made themselves, held a jumble sale and sold numerous items they had made collectively and individually.

Guides did baby-sitting,

In addition Rangers, Guides, and Brownies cleaned the Cathedral galleries and the money earned was turned in to Mrs. A. B. Garrison, division commissioner.

In the Gonzales Division, under commissioner Mrs. N. R. Stewart, Brownies held a bazaar and cleaned several churches. They also cleaned feeding bowls at the Island View Wild Bird Research Station and gathered food for the sea birds. In addition they raised leaves at Westerns School.

The Guides held a bazaar, did babysitting jobs, and chores for neighbors. Rangers did household chores and other good turn duties some of which received remuneration.

Pupils Model Self-Styled Fashions

Girls from senior secondary schools will model styles made by themselves at a fashion show to be held at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School on Wednesday.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Four years ago my cousin and her husband were killed in an automobile accident. My husband was driving and I was seated beside him. We walked away from the totally demolished car without a scratch. It was one of those freak accidents no one could explain.

A lovely little girl (two years old at the time) was orphaned as a result of that accident, so my husband and I adopted her. The following year we had our first child—a son. It is apparent to everyone who comes into this house that my husband is extremely partial to the little girl. Our own boy gets no affection, just yelled at. His father has infinite patience with the girl. Everything our boy does irritates him.

Doesn't it seem strange that a father would favor an adopted child over his own? I need some help, Ann, because I see signs of serious trouble ahead if something isn't done. —BOSTON.

Dear Boston: It may well be that your husband has some guilty feelings in connection with the death of this child's parents and is trying to compensate by being overly attentive to her. Your natural resentment against your husband for mistreating his own son is producing additional trouble, and he is bound to feel it.

I hope you will both discuss this problem with a specialist. Professional help could be very useful.

Heavy Drinker

Dear Ann Landers: I am a career girl who swore off serious entanglements when a gentleman with whom I went for four years literally stood me up at the church.

I met a very attractive man at a respectable swimming club several weeks ago and we hit it off together immediately. He was divorced and friendly and attentive. The problem—he can consume a staggering quantity of liquor without showing it, and then all of a sudden he passes out cold.

The first time this occurred I was certain he had had a heart attack. What worries me to death is that he insists on driving—drunk or sober—and it is impossible to tell when he has made the transition. I don't want to insult him and insist on driving, yet I'm afraid one day he will drive us both into the river.

What do you suggest? —CHECKEN.

Dear Check: Since the guy obviously drinks like a fish, tell him you'll swim with him but you won't drive with him. And make it stick. Better he should be insulted than you should be dead.

Dear Ann Landers: We are

Calgary Women In Good Shape

CALGARY (CP)—A physical fitness test of 119 women here showed they measure up to the Canadian average. "But they did better than Toronto women," said Mrs. John Munro of Toronto, who is conducting the clinics for the YMCA. The worst showing was in pushups—only 33 passed the test.

Discovery W1 Finishes Quilt

DISCOVERY, N.W.T. (CP)—The Women's Institute in this community 800 miles north of Edmonton finished its centennial project recently by raffling a quilt bearing signatures of 600 former residents. Proceeds will be used to help a girl living in Hong Kong whom the group has adopted.

Women Help Hospital

Nurses residence at St. Joseph's Hospital was the setting for a successful Hawaiian tea held by Ladies' Auxiliary to the hospital. About $300 was realized and will be used to purchase another Berd respirator for the hospital.

Mrs. Roy Atkinson was convener and Mrs. Arthur Cowdon, co-convener. Mrs. W. Rogers, president, welcomed the guests, along with Mrs. E. Van Tilburg, who was hostess for the affair.

A fashion show was presented by 13 Grade II students at St. Ann's Academy. Miss Liz Campbell provided musical entertainment on the guitar.

Mrs. H. Ingham, Mrs. M. Adkisson, Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. W. Critchley were in charge of the home bake sale; Mrs. C. A. Macgillivray, decorations and flowers; Mrs. P. Semenovuk, Mrs. R. Grant, Mrs. W. Wit Explained

While wit and humor operate on slightly different levels, said Dr. Frederick Mayne at the University Women's Club annual dinner recently, both appeal to the intellectual facilities of man, and both utilize similar ingredients.

The first is an irreverence of authority in all forms—parental, matrimonial, governmental—all aspects are fair game for laughter. The flouting of authority is achieved usually by arousing a sense of superiority often at someone else's expense, a process familiar even to children.

Such humor ranges from pure slapstick through ethnic jokes to cutting sarcasm like de Gaulle jokes.

Dr. Mayne said that dirty jokes are disappearing in direct proportion to today's open discussion of sex. He added that humor through the ages has deliberately exploited an awareness of the body and its limitations.

Tragedy, he said, on the other hand appeals to the emotions and sympathies. A highlight of the dinner which was held at Holyrood House was when a life membership was conferred on Miss Elizabeth Forbes. Mrs. Olga Bowes made the presentation.

Mrs. J. W. McCommon is the new president and other members of the executive are Mrs. R. A. Fraser, past president; Miss Margaret Lowe, 1st vice president; Mrs. J. E. Browne, 2nd vice president; Mrs. M. Blake and Mrs. D. H. Toms, corresponding and recording secretaries; Mrs. J. H. Brown, treasurer; Mrs. D. M. Cox, Federation; Mrs. A. H. Cameron, study group; Mrs. A. Paul, social and Mrs. J. S. Sanderson, publicity.

'Murder of Week' Foiled by Police

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six youthful Negroes charged with conspiring to "indiscriminately" murder white policemen in Harlem at the rate of one a week to touch off racial chaos were held for trial Friday in total bail of $102,000.

Five of the men were arrested in a Harlem apartment Thursday night and one was arrested Friday morning. A police official said they were rush arrests because it was learned the suspects planned to put their plan into effect in the near future.

Police said the suspects planned to break into an undisclosed armory to steal weapons and to rob a cheque-cashing firm and kill its owner to get money to finance the project. Seized with the five men in the apartment was a sawed off shotgun, rifles, a pistol, several bombs and the makings of other bombs.

WASHINGTON (CP) — A leader of the Poor People's Campaign said Friday it plans a huge Memorial Day demonstration by at least 1,000,000 people May 30. He also said the campaign faces a "financial crisis."

Rev. Bernard Lafayette, campaign co-ordinator, gave no details of the U.S. holiday rally nor offered to give the basis for the estimated attendance.

The figure would be five times as high as the 200,000 who participated in the historic civil rights rally here in 1963.

CASH NEEDED

Lafayette told a news conference $3,000,000 is needed to complete construction of "Resurrection City, U.S.," the Poor People's shantytown settlement near the Lincoln Memorial. The $3,000,000 figure would represent about $5,000 each for the tent-shaped wooden shelters.

Later, Lafayette told a reporter another official had given him the $3,000,000 figure when talking about the amount needed to "pull us out of the hole and keep the campaign going . . . to get us back on our feet."

FUND LACK

He issued an appeal against more enlistments in the campaign until the Memorial Day rally because the movement lacks the funds to house more people.

The Poor People campaigners are vowing to camp in Washington until Congress improves the condition of the United States' have-nots by acting on such demands as those for job opportunities, guaranteed wages and more realistic welfare programs.

'LAST CHANCE'

Campaign leader Rev. Ralph Abernathy, head of the sponsoring Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said in Minneapolis Friday that the campaign may be the country's "last chance to solve its problems" "in a decent way."

"Time is running out—it already has run out," he said.

Abernathy told the 180th general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. that if the United States can afford to spend billions of dollars to send a man to the moon, it can afford to feed its poor.

MORE ARRIVALS

Meanwhile, campaigners and sympathizers continued to arrive in Washington.

Another 900 demonstrators arriving from the U.S. Northwest were halted in the suburb of Greenbelt, Md.

Is CBC Against Canadians?

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram says disgruntled CBC employees have prepared a brief accusing the CBC of being prejudiced against placing native Canadians in top news reporting jobs.

It says the brief, to be presented to members of Parliament after the June 25 federal election, states native Canadians in the CBC's 185 news reporting jobs have little chance of gaining prime TV and reporting positions.

It quotes an author of the brief as saying CBC reporters Tom Leach, Ron Collier, Michael McLean, Gordon Donaldson and Bill Stevenson "have all parachuted in from England."

The brief is also reported to charge the CBC, among other things, with irresponsible spending on shows that are never used and affecting employee morale by excessive managerial shuffling in the news department.

Had Fallen in Schoolyard

Boy Dead—Heart Kept Alive

TORONTO (CP) — An autopsy Friday showed that a 12-year-old Ajax, Ont., boy, kept alive with a heart-lung machine at the Hospital for Sick Children for six days, was already dead when placed on the machine.

The autopsy, conducted by Dr. A. V. Kirchner, showed deterioration of the brain that indicated Derek Lenchan was actually dead before he was pronounced dead at the hospital Friday.

The boy had become unconscious at his home after suffering headaches and an earache for a month, a hospital spokesman said. He had fallen while playing in a schoolyard and two weeks before he went into a coma, he collapsed at home.

Derek was taken to the hospital last week and placed on the machine which kept his heart beating.

One Child Has Leukemia

Father Appeals for Help

CAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The father of two children who were snatched from their grandmother on an Oakville street Thursday has appealed to provincial and federal politicians for help in recovering them. One of the children is dying from leukemia.

Ron Martin, 51, an American citizen teaching English at Sheridan College, Brampton, Ont., said he is sure the children were seized by private detectives hired by their mother and have been taken back to the United States.

Martin said he appealed Friday to James Snow, member of the Ontario legislature for Halton East, to take the case to the legislature, and to get a public ruling from Attorney-General Arthur Wishart on the legality of the seizure.

He also asked Dr. Harry Hargay, Liberal member for Halton in the last Parliament, to put the matter before External Affairs Minister Sharp for a ruling on whether the children could legally be taken to the U.S. without going through immigration department channels.

The children, Valerie, 8, and Martin said he appealed Friday to John, 5, were thrown screaming EDINBURGH (Reuters) — A drink of liquid weed killer that looked like lemonade landed 15-year-old Alex Smith in hospital here for the first lung transplant operation in Europe, it was learned Friday.

Edinburgh Royal Infirmary, where the operation was performed Wednesday, refused to disclose any details. The hospital said only that Alex's condition is satisfactory.

Previous lung transplant attempts failed.

LONELY ISLAND

Information about the events that led up to the operation came from Smith's family and friends on the lonely island of Lewis in the Hebrides, about 250 miles north of Edinburgh.

The reports said Alex was one of several schoolboys who sampled weed killer in Lewis earlier this week. The other schoolboys became sick, but did not develop lung complications.

The reports said Alex was rushed to the infirmary by plane from Lewis suffering from what was diagnosed as "irreversible pneumonia."

DEAD OVERDOSE

Source at the infirmary said the donor was an 18-year-old Edinburgh girl who died of a drug overdose.

The sources said nine doctors were called in to confirm the girl's death before the operation was performed.

No details about the girl were released by hospital authorities. Doctors refused to hold a press conference.

Friday morning, Alex winked at his father from behind a glass partition in the hospital.

Two lung transplants have been performed in the United States, one in Canada and three in Japan. All have failed.

Smith is the youngest of a family of nine in a poor farming community. His father runs a small trucking company and flew with Alex on the plane to Edinburgh.

"Just what are the free ports in the Caribbean? And what are the best buys?"
 Every island except Puerto Rico seems to have a free port.
 They sell imported goods tax free and duty free to visitors who intend to take them out.
 They all sell about the same things. French perfumes, Swiss watches. German cameras.
 Japanese translators. Scotch whisky. English woollens. Dutch Curacao goes heavy on Delft china. You find more Danish silver in the Virgin Islands.

"... how we might best plan a trip by car in the U.S."
 Best I've seen are the Chev-ron trip kits. Go into any Standard Oil station and pick up a travel request card. Fill in where you want to go. They route you by mail with maps, scenic routes, points of interest.
 Best of all, it's free. (They hope you'll buy some gas from them while you're on tour.)

"Will we have any difficulty driving in Mexico?"
 I shouldn't think so. Roads are good and well-marked.
 Better learn a few Spanish signs like "puente angosto" - narrow bridge. And they mean two cars at once are going to be squeezed into one.

Going through towns there's a lot of one-way. The directional arrows are painted on the building walls at corners. A traffic policeman facing you means stop even if he doesn't have his hand up. If he's in profile, go.

If you're in doubt about highway information, do NOT ask the man on the street.
 Chances are he hasn't been 50 miles from home in his life. But you flattered him by asking. He's not about to admit he doesn't know. He'll tell you something.
 Mostly wrong. (Ask in gas stations. Or truck drivers.)

Carpets Planned

Touch of Luxury On Ferry Fleet

VANCOUVER (Staff) — All B.C. Ferries may eventually have wall-to-wall carpeting in the public rooms, general manager Monty Aldous said Thursday.

He was commenting on the use of the carpeting in the public rooms of the newest and largest vessel in the fleet, Queen of the Sunshine Coast, which went into service between Horseshoe bay and Langdale on Howe Sound.

Mr. Aldous said Ferry authorities want to see how the carpet stands up to wear and tear under conditions of actual use.

However, he said, it seems to have advantages — low maintenance, "great safety" because there is little chance of a passenger slipping and falling, and just straight passenger comfort.

International Satellite Up

It Beeps in 11 Tongues

VANDENBERG, Calif. (UPI)
 — Scientists from 11 nations
 Friday were jubilant over the near-perfect orbit achieved by Esro 2, the international satellite.

"It's beautiful," said one project spokesman.
 Experiments to measure solar and cosmic radiation were scheduled to start at 10 p.m.
 PDT today.

Esro 2 — carrying the flags of Belgium, Denmark, France,
 West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and the United States — was launched from this base at 7:06 p.m. PDT Thursday.

POLAR ORBIT
 It went into elliptical polar orbit around the earth in a path that took it to altitudes ranging from 204 miles to 674 miles at an inclination of 97.2 degrees.

The planned orbital path called for a perigee of 215 miles and 680 miles with an inclination of 98 degrees.

Esro 2 was reported circling the globe once every 98.9

GOOD SCOUT
 The 180-pound, cylindrical satellite was boosted into orbit by a Scout rocket. The rocket and launch facilities for the satellite developed by the 10-nation European space research organization were supplied by America's National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Esro 2 is destined to spend a full year in orbit conducting seven experiments to investigate electromagnetic radiation from the sun and the makeup of cosmic rays.

EARLIER REVERSAL

The first model of Esro 2 was launched May 29, 1967, but failed to attain orbit due to a malfunction in the Scout booster. Thursday's launch had been delayed by electrical problems in the rocket.

Esro was founded in 1964 and has its headquarters in Paris.

 man who found the cars parked in an area for graduates and university staff.

Our Waltzing Matilda Circle Pacific Holiday will sail away on January 8, 1969. Care to Dance?

If so, all you have to do is step on board our ship
Arcadia, in Vancouver, and we'll whirl away.
 Across the Pacific to Hawaii. To Fiji — ever seen anybody walk on fire? Here's your chance. And to Pago Pago, where the traditional Polynesian way of life is still real.

To the geysers and glaciers of spectacular New Zealand. Then, spacious Australia, where you have your choice of land tours. Singapore, the world-famous markets and bazaars of Hong Kong. On to Japan. (Overland tours here, too, to show you Kobe, Mt. Fuji, Tokyo and Yokohama.) Then Hawaii, and back to Vancouver.

Your entire Waltzing Matilda go-round in the Pacific will last two months, and chances are, you'll wish it were even longer.

You may have had your fill of sightseeing, but you'll probably want to spend more time enjoying the luxury of life aboard a P&O ship.

Arcadia is fully air-conditioned, of course. She's got all sorts of amusements and entertainments, dinners and dances ready for you. She also has one crewman on board for every two passengers. And that ratio makes for the kind of superb service that's gone out of style elsewhere.

What does it cost? As little as $1434 tourist, $1795 first class. Which includes special sightseeing, land tours, escorts — the works! Any cash you carry with you will be just for extras.

For more information, see your travel agent, or clip the coupon below. Then, brush up on your waltz.

Evening Bloomers

By M. V. CHESNUT

I think I mentioned in an earlier article something of the frustration and irritation I experienced when I first experimented with Tigridia bulbs. Not that they were at all difficult to grow, for like most of the summer-flowering bulbs, Tigridias are comparatively free from temperamental eccentricities.

Trouble was the flowers opened after I had gone to work in the morning and were closed by the time I returned home in the evening, and the only time I ever got to see my glorious spotted blooms was on weekends.

Since that time, I have come to place a special value on flowers that open in the evening, and especially those that greet the commuter with sweet fragrance on his return home.

On the cool, damp evenings of spring, the heady perfume of hyacinths lingers over from the day. Later in the season, an even stronger fragrance is distilled by the biennial plants — the kinds that bloom in their second year from seed.

The best of these, hardy enough to stand out through the winter, are the Brompton stocks, with double or single flowers mostly in shades of pink, red, lavender and white. Seeds can be sown outdoors in late May or early June, and the young plants shifted in the autumn to sheltered positions, ideally close to the house, where they come through an average winter unscathed. These make bushy plants smothered in April and May with fragrant blooms, especially sweetly scented in the evening hours.

Our grandmothers knew a good thing when they planted their fern or cottage gardens with Hesperis matronalis, affectionately known as Sweet Rocket or Dame's Rocket.

Grown in the same way as the Brompton stocks, Sweet Rocket makes a plant about two and one-half feet tall, with spikes of single flowers in mauve or white which remain open but scentless during the day. From supper-time on, though, the clustered blossoms fill the air with a haunting fragrance, a bit like violets and a bit like hyacinths.

While each plant lives for only two years, it seeds itself freely and there is never any shortage of self-sown seedlings to keep the display going.

Nicotiana, which is simply an ornamental tobacco plant, is renowned for its evening perfume, but if this is your air, make sure the plants you buy are not the new Daylight hybrids.

These have been especially bred to stay open during daylight hours, and while they are far superior as an ornamental bedding plant, their scent is nothing like as strong nor as sweet as the old Nicotiana glauca, which closes its blossoms tightly during the day.

The Evening Scented Stock, Matthiola bicornis, is truly the Cinderella of the plant world. Easy to grow from a casual scattering of seeds, this annual makes a rather untidy and dowdy plant with closed buds, though these buds open to small mauve star-shaped flowers, still not overly handsome, but the fragrance from these small blossoms is out of this world.

Mirabilis jalapa is a tuberous perennial commonly grown as an easy annual from seed, very popular in Spain where it is known as Hermosa de Noche, Flower of the Night. Hereabouts it is called Marvel of Peru or Four O'clock, the latter name because the wide funnel-shaped flowers open in late afternoon. The flowers may be red, pink, white, or occasionally bicolored, and the perfume, while not as powerful as Nicotiana, has a light, sweet, exhilarating scent.

Seeds are available in almost every seed rack and catalogue under one or the other of its two common names, and the bushy two-foot plants make a good and fast-growing temporary hedge, sweet with evening-scented flowers. Or they may be grown in tubs as specimen plants for bringing fragrance to a patio or other sitting-out place.

It is not generally known that the turnip-like roots may be dug up and stored in the fall in the same way as dahlia tubers.

JACK SMITH Disputes New Theory

Wordy Advice Bad Thing

Children whose parents use a lot of words — to describe, explain, instruct — get better grades in school, according to a new book, The Disadvantaged: Challenge to Education.

That may be generally true. Words are the furniture of thought. But the examples given in the book leave me in some doubt. They sound good in theory, but I wouldn't want to put them to the test with real children.

The child has an advantage, we are told, if his parent explains "Eat the meat because it's good for you — it will make you tall and strong," instead of merely commanding, "Eat the meat — do as I say."

There are a few more facts I would have to know about the situation before I could agree with that.

What kind of meat is it? Liver? My mother used to tell me, "Eat your liver. It will make you tall and strong." I hated liver. The very sight of it made me ill. To this day I will not eat liver. I may not be tall and strong, but I am the master of my soul.

Also, there is another hazard in saying "Eat the meat because it's good for you — it will make you tall and strong."

Suppose the child does eat his liver, and grows up stunted and scrawny anyway. He will never believe his parents again, or any adult. His bitterness may turn him into a vegetarian, if not a vegetable.

The best approach to the situation, in my experience, is to keep dinner waiting until the kid is so hungry he would eat anything — even kidney pie, then no words at all would be required. Hunger is the best sauce.

Children must learn to "elaborate" with language, the book says. Rather than saying "Don't play with Mike," a parent should explain, "I wish you wouldn't play with Mike; he doesn't use nice words."

I don't know. My mother used to tell me, "Don't play with Mike; he doesn't use nice words."

Only his name wasn't really Mike. It was Spider, because he had long thin arms and legs and wore a black fedora. Spider had a sick vocabulary. He was older than I was, and more worldly. He taught me words I never could have learned at home. Maybe they weren't nice, but they came in handy.

It was years before I realized Spider was about the only person I knew in those days who used the word "nice" in any fastidious way. He was always working on his old Model T Ford, and when some part fitted just right he would grin at it, wiping his oily hands on his pants, and say, "NICE, OH, NICE!"

He also said girls were nice — even bad ones. I didn't discover the truth of this until later, either.

If parents are to be so wordy, what will become of that legendary hero — the strong silent man? Can you hear Gary Cooper telling a kid, "Don't play with Mike; he doesn't use nice words?" Or Humphrey Bogart? Or even Bobby Kennedy?

Sometimes Jack Kennedy didn't use nice words, and he made it all the way up. It was probably just the other way around with the Kennedys. I bet the Cabot kids and the Lodge kids weren't allowed to play with the Kennedy kids — even the girls — because they didn't use nice words.

A child should get all the language he can at home; but there's no use trying to shield him from the language of the streets. It will give him balance.

And there's no use trying to make him eat liver by any other name, or with any flimsy promise of growing strong and virile.

Try that and he will surely rebel, like the little girl in the classic New Yorker cartoon who told her mother: "If I say the spinach, and the hell with it."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Britt Takes Off—Again

LONDON (NANA) — Peter Sellers had a few words with Britt Ekland and she took off for Sweden which is what she usually does when they have a few words. She will probably get over it and join him on his boat which is what she usually does. But for how long, no one is guessing.

Mia Farrow invited 100 of her most intimate friends to a private and special showing of her movie Rosemary's Baby, produced by Bill Castle for Roman Polanski — he was invited, too. And the general consensus was the Black Garden steals the picture... which she always does anyway.

Dino de Laurentis Bandits of Milano is number one in Italy, followed by Ben Hur. Two goodlies from the Paramount stable — Michael Caine has reached the $750,000 against 10 per cent of the gross plateau — for his film for Bob Aldrich, Two Lads for the Ladies. Michael is back in London from the hateful location in Almeria. If you ever have to go there take your knitting because there is absolutely nothing else to do, in the evening that is. Michael has been ominously quiet on the romantic front, but love and Almeria simply don't go together.

Still no new James Bond in sight. Producers Rescort and Saltzman may have to find an American for the suave 007. How about an Irishman? Someone like Stephen Boyd. When I raised the question I was told he was not rugged enough. But he can be if you remember him in Ben Hur... Robert Farrah told me he is preparing a picture by the odd name of Doppelganger. No one is mind for the lead yet, but he was asking questions about Roy Thinnes of The Invaders.

An apple a day does not keep a Beate away. Under the name of Apple, the Beatles are planning to make two films — one in association with United Artists; two, in which they do not appear, with Jean Lee Godard and a last one with Nick Bess, who was the lighting expert on Jailhouse Rock. Far from the Madding Crowd, and who will get his first chance as a director.

Jean Collins has a new baby sister. Her Pa, in his late 60s, married again, about a year and a half ago, some years after Joan's mother died, and his new young wife has presented him with a child. Joan is in Malta making a picture with a name too long to repeat again, with husband Tony Newley... Even Jean Lennon was surprised when American playwright Adrienne Kennedy was able to make a play of his books, in His Own Write, and Spandau in the Works. And it's even more surprising that Victor Spinetti will direct it. New Yorkers saw him on stage in Oh What A Lovely War.

Political Positioning

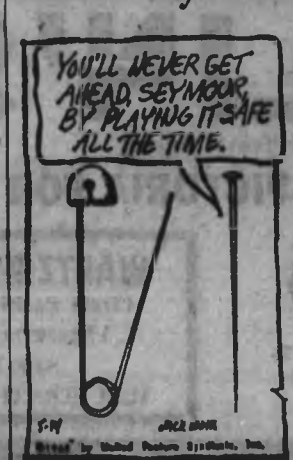

SYDNEY HARRIS

A few days before he declared himself (temporarily) out of the presidential race, Governor Rockefeller was described in a front-page story in the New York Times as conferring with his advisers about the "public position" he ought to take on the Vietnam war.

"These advisers," the story said, "have urged Governor Rockefeller to picture himself as a 'moderate dove' with views somewhere between those of Richard Nixon and Senator Robert Kennedy... but other men have advised him to avoid detailing his views on Vietnam at this time."

Here, in an odious little nutshell, is what is wrong with American politics, as its highest conventional level. It has become more a matter of public relations and "positioning" the candidate than a matter of right and wrong, good and bad, true and false. Why should Governor Rockefeller, or any other potential candidate, have to "picture himself" as anything? Why should he not say what he believes, fully and frankly, and let the chips fall where they may?

PIXIES by Wohl

Why should he wait for the right time, or the right place, or the right situation, to declare what course he thinks the U.S. should follow in this most crucial issue of our decade?

Running for president, or any other high office, is not comparable to putting a new product on the market, and trying to find a singular "place" for it among the competing claims of other products.

Finding a "share of market" may be fine for a soap or a soap, but it is demeaning and ultimately immoral for a man who offers national leadership.

That will offer the hawks an immeasurable victory and the doves a decent setback; that will seem all things to all men without any genuine commitment to basic moral, social or political principles.

This is why a right radical like Goldwater was more honest than conventional candidates; why a racist like George Wallace is more honest (if far more dangerous); why a candid peace candidate like Eugene McCarthy is more honest, and more appealing, than the men who mask their convictions (or fail to have any) under the guise of "moderation."

A candidate should not "position" himself to get the maximum support for the minimum of commitment. This "false kind of 'moderation'" merely drives a cynical public into the arms of blind extremism.

Socreds Could Lose in Close Race

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — There are strong and persistent signs that Tuesday's byelection vote in Vancouver South could result in an upset defeat for Social Credit.

Although the Socreds, NDP and Liberals are all predicting victory by a substantial margin, some party officials are saying privately as the six-week campaign winds up this weekend the result will be close.

Both New Democrat Norman Levi and Liberal E. A. (Sandy) Robertson are predicting they will make big gains this time. And an on-the-spot check of voter reaction indicates the underdog Liberals may be gaining ground on the NDP which established early dominance in the campaign. This leaves Socred George Wainborn, supported a high-powered cabinet contingent headed by Premier Bennett, fighting to hold onto the remnants of what had been a comfortable lead in the riding in the Sept. 12, 1966, provincial general election.

An accurate prediction by professional politician, pollster or pundit, is made more difficult than usual because this is a byelection.

The best-laid political plans, particularly of the government, are liable to run afoul of what is known as the byelection syndrome. This is then the voter, overcome by frustration, lets off steam by kicking the administration without running the risk of a change of government.

The issues, and predicting the final outcome, are further confused by the June 25 federal election campaign just now getting under and a local city-wide plebiscite on downtown development slated to be held next Wednesday, the day after the byelection.

Honors for the best campaign organization must go to the NDP.

The NDP's Norman Levi, a

stocky 41-year-old who is on leave of absence from his job as a social worker with the John Howard Society, is a proven vote-getter in the area. He has five children, was a tank driver in the British Army and later in the 1948 Israel-Arab conflict, and is a fluent and articulate speaker.

His opponents refer to the NDP candidate and the party's campaign organization as "the professionals." Mr. Levi ran federally in the riding in 1965, polling 10,700 votes, and in the last provincial election he was runner-up with 9,067 — some 2,700 behind Social Credit's second successful candidate in the two-seat riding.

The NDP has concentrated on a massive sign campaign, intensive personal canvassing in

Stop the Music

When you are just four years old like Christopher Webster of James Bay kindergarten, and 600 voices burst into song right near you, you get to wishing you were somewhere else—anywhere else. When that wasn't possible Christopher just held his ears as Greater Victoria school children sang on steps of legislative buildings Friday in IODE salute to Queen Victoria.—(Jim Ryan)

Thieu Accepts Saigon Cabinet Resigns

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Van Loc and his cabinet have resigned, a spokesman for Loc said today.

The spokesman, Bui Nghi, said President Nguyen Van Thieu had accepted the resignations of Loc and his 17 ministers but asked them to stay on as a caretaker government until a new cabinet can be formed.

Loc was a close ally of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky in the Saigon hierarchy. Ky and Thieu have been rivals for the nation's leadership.

'DO-NOTHING' CABINET

The resignations apparently had no connection with Vietnam talks in Paris between the United States and North Vietnam.

Loc, 45, served six months as premier.

Mt. Doug Topples Prep Track Giants

Mt. Douglas toppled the giants Friday at Centennial Stadium to win the inter-high school track and field meet for the first time. Victoria finished second, followed by Oak Bay, Claremont, Mount View and Esquimalt. (Pictures and stories on pages 12 and 14.)

Draft Centre Rushed And Records Burned

CATONSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Nine anti-war protesters charged into an armed forces induction office here Friday, dumped 600 draft records into trash burners, and set them afire in a nearby parking lot.

The nine included two men, Rev. Philip Berrigan, a Josephite priest, and Thomas Lewis, a peace worker, who already were facing possible prison terms for their part in a demonstration last October when blood was poured on draft board records in Baltimore.

The nine entered the office shortly after noon. Mrs. Mary Murphy, 53, the chief clerk and one of the three women in the office said one approached her and she asked "What can I do for you?" The others crowded around and then charged into the room where the files of 13,000 men were stored.

She said two of the men carried large trash burners. "We don't mean any harm," one man said.

They emptied the contents of four file drawers into the burners. Each drawer contained 150 files. One of the clerks tried to stop them and was brushed aside. Mrs. Murphy got a hand on one of the burners and received a cut finger when it was wrestled away from her.

John Moxley, a maintenance man at the building, said he saw the crowd enter the building and a few minutes later heard Mrs. Murphy scream. "She screamed and

Ailing Kosygin in Prague

PRAGUE (AP)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived here unexpectedly Friday, hard on the heels of a top-level Soviet military mission, for what was officially described as medical treatment and talks with the leaders of Czechoslovakia's new liberal government.

The visit, announced only after Kosygin's arrival from Moscow, came as Czechoslovak officials were trying to play down some of the violent anti-Soviet attacks of the uncensored Prague press. The government has been banding backward to assure the Kremlin that it will remain Communist, despite Soviet con-

TV Debate Falls Apart

Broader Plan By CBC

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC announced Friday night it remains ready to organize a bilingual television debate between the leaders of the three major political parties campaigning for the June 25 federal election.

The statement followed Ottawa reports that negotiations for a Trudeau-Stanfield national television debate on CTV had broken off.

J. P. Gilmore, a CBC vice-president, said in a statement here the CBC "is agreeable to make suitable co-production arrangements with CTV" for a national debate.

He said the CBC would make such broadcasts available to "every radio and television station in Canada."

Conservative officials announced in Ottawa that the CTV debate between Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield had been cancelled. They blamed Trudeau.

The prime minister has said that he would be willing to take part in a television debate only if other party leaders, including T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, were able to participate.

Conservative campaign chairman Edwin Goodman, said a five-man debate would not be a confrontation but more like a United Nations Security Council round-table meeting.

Goodman said Trudeau earlier had agreed in principle to a debate with Stanfield "and with no other person."

Variety of Causes

Five Nations Feel Wrath of Students

By Reuters

Student unrest flared in five countries Friday, with marches, demonstrations, strikes and violence sparked by a variety of causes. (See Page 38.)

IN PARIS, which last week saw the worst peace-time street-fighting in a century, militant students met and demonstrated in an effort to cement an alliance with striking workers.

IN MADRID, an attempted demonstration by about 400 university students against the Spanish head of state, Francisco Franco, was thwarted by police backed by cavalry and water hoses. The students blocked traffic, hurled tables and chairs and stoned police and passing cars before dispersing.

IN DUBLIN, hundreds of university students marched on two newspaper offices to protest press reporting of disturbances there Wednesday during the visit of the king and queen of Belgium.

IN MILAN, Italy, mounted police charged about 400 university students as they started out on a march, chanting slogans against the government.

IN SOUTH AMERICA, violence erupted in the Peruvian town of Huaras as students demanding a technical university blew up two bridges and attacked the local police station. One person was killed and 10 seriously injured when police opened fire and used tear-gas.

Burger Research Due—with Relish

SOLID FRONT: The hamburger lobby must be strong. Since I suggested we need more and better quality hamburgers I have been flooded with offers to try out various establishments just to prove that I am wrong.

However one operator did admit he has tasted some pretty terrible burgers around Victoria.

One burger vendor from outside the city limits said the problem was Victoria. He suggested Victoria burger barons are just not with it.

One gentleman arrived with a flock of testimonials that made me quite embarrassed.

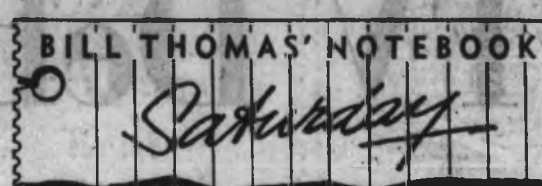

If I take advantage of the offers then it's a pound to a penny I put on a ton, but it could make very good eating.

The ground rules for the product of my dreams include raw onions, fresh buns, generous amounts of ground beef, well seasoned, and topped with a pickle. If there is an option, then I want hot mustard.

Despite the operators, who have the courage to brag about their products, I still say it is hard to find a good hamburger, but I will report back after I have done more field work.

IT'S TRUE: Singer Sam Mardis is alive and selling liquor in Victoria. A gentleman of the same name dies, but no address was given in the obituary notice. Since then Mrs. Martin has been getting sympathy cards in the mail and callers wishing her and the family well.

Mr. Martin continues to sing and plug along at his job in the Government Street liquor store.

POLITICAL FARE: Since David Gross offered us his recipe for Trudeau strawberry Victoria, Tory runner Eric Chalmers has countered with his recipe for strawberry and rhubarb pie. Here goes.

Take a pound of shortening and five cups of flour and add a pinch of salt. In a measuring cup, beat an egg, add an eggcup full of burgundy and top up with water.

Mix this pastry with a minimum of handling and rolling.

The filling is made from fresh rhubarb topped with generous quantities of sugar. A few thin slices of lemon rind help the flavor.

Pre-heat the oven to 425 degrees and bake for 20 minutes then reduce heat to 400 and cook another 40 minutes.

The topping is made from fresh cream which should be whipped with a teaspoon of sugar and a teaspoon of vanilla.

The rose must be removed from the mouth before sampling.

ONE GOING: There is a strong possibility that the city will lose one of its brightest theatre talents. Dorothy Hoale has an offer from Charlotte, town to join the festival company. She would do two major roles and a supporting role during the six months run.

Right now she is dickering on price but she expects to hear from Alan Land this weekend. It's a great break but theatre fans will be sorry to see her take off.

SOUND OFF: There is going to be another concert at the Victoria Conservatory of Music according to assistant director Rodney Webster. The music will be heard at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Performers will be Jan Mending, flute; Barry Moncar, clarinet; Faith Webster, soprano and Robin Wood and Winifred Scott on piano.

There is not much space at the conservatory so it would be well to call and reserve space.

SQUARE DEAL: Bastion Square has a barrow boy but he wants buttons. The cheery Londoner wants to fix himself up with a pearl king coat and is far short of the number of buttons needed.

Even when he gets them he is faced with the mammoth task of doing the sewing. Perhaps Jerry Gosley can help him out. It must be dusting off his Smile Show outfits by now.

Socreds Face Fight

homes and business which will continue right through next Monday with a final pamphlet stuffed through mail boxes, and elaborate arrangements to get voters out to the polls Tuesday.

The organization is being overseen by Michael Lewis, 23-year-old son of federal NDP House leader David Lewis, who refined his methods in the NDP's successful bid for two Burrard seats in 1966 and earlier this year when the party made substantial gains in Ontario.

Apart from the obvious advantage of experience there seems little to choose between the candidates.

The Liberal standardbearer is 45-year-old consulting engineer Sandy Robertson, a former professional pitcher in baseball's minor leagues and UBC basketball star. He talks convincingly of the need for planning in anti-pollution measures as well as construction of highways, bridges and other structures. And he meets the voters easily at coffee parties which the Liberals regard as a tested method of winning votes.

Last time, in Vancouver South the Liberals ran a poor third, trailing Social Credit by some 6,000 votes. But party officials claim their candidate in this campaign, largely because of his sports background, is better known and backed by a much better organization.

Dr. Patrick McGeer, who came out of relative obscurity in 1962 to win the Point Grey byelection from Socreds, thinks the Liberals can do it again here. He said the party has challenged the NDP in its home territory, east of Cambie Street, as never before, and made "solid gains everywhere."

"I've canvassed a lot of elections and Social Credit support is simply not there," he says.

Socred George Walborn, 55, is billed in this election as the candidate with more than 30 years of community service, 10 of them as city parks commissioner. He works as a special events sales supervisor for a soft drink bottling company, and is giving away packets of nasturtium seeds and key chains which read: "Things go better with George."

Government supporters who worry about his apparent lack of campaigning ability, solace themselves by saying, as one minister did Friday, "George has thousands of J.O.U.'s out for services rendered that will bring him votes Tuesday."

The fourth candidate in the byelection is Republican Leonard Sprackman, a 52-year-old accountant who recalls his days as a logger near Alberni, when he plays guitar in a group called the Salmon River Boys quartet. He has driven a tractor around the riding pulling a hayrack which he calls the Republican bandwagon.

Mr. Sprackman predicts Social Credit won't win but he is philosophical about his own party's vote pulling power. He cooler heads however predict a 500-vote margin of victory.

Liberal victory, in a close three-way fight with the Socreds "coming out on the bottom end."

The voters who will determine the outcome go to the polls starting at 8 a.m. Tuesday. And whatever happens, this is merely the curtain raiser to three more by-elections, one in Oak Bay slated for late July.

Bennett's statement that the province would have a budget of more than $1,000,000,000 in 1969. Here is how the principal participants officially see the result of Tuesday's vote:

Social Credit, victory by 3,000 votes, with the NDP second and the Liberals a poor third. Some

The Victoria Conservatory of Music

A report to the public and in particular to those who assisted in the raising of funds for the Norma MacDonald Piano.

Funds raised in March, 1966 in the amount of $1,700.00 under the auspices of the Centennial Society Co-ordinator, Mr. Gerry Gosley, were, in the words of the Memorial Concert Programme:

"Proceeds to assist the Victoria School of Music to purchase a full concert grand piano for the use and enjoyment of the citizens of Greater Victoria."

The balance of the purchase price of $9,100.00 was subscribed by benefactors of the Conservatory and the piano was duly purchased.

Since that time the piano has been made available for serious performance for the public enjoyment as often as reasonable common sense in the handling of so fine an instrument dictates. This piano has been loaned without charge where required to the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, the Musical Arts Society and the Registered Music Teachers' Association to name but a few.

It is estimated that the piano has been heard in performance by upwards of 40,000 people and has been performed on by more than 200 persons of all ages, outside the Conservatory.

The day to day disposition of the piano is, and will continue to be, in the hands of the Music Director of the Conservatory.

As always in the past this instrument, other pianos, and other instruments will continue to be made available for public use whenever possible.

John Graeme, President.

Cornea Exchange for Loan? No Doctor Would Approve

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to donate a cornea of the eye while living? I would like someone to loan us money to build a home. — L.M.

Forget the whole idea. In the first place, no doctor would ruin a healthy eye to repair another eye. Second, no payment is made for donated eyes or other organs which are used for transplants after the donor's death.

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I may have shingles, although my doctor told me it was something else. I have a terrible itching around my neck with blisters similar to chickenpox. He prescribed some salve but it does not always help. — M.B.E., E.D.

Shingles is a virus infection attacking a nerve. It is ordinarily a "one-sided disease," because nerves branching out from the spinal cord spread out to the side. There is no nerve which encircles the neck. There is a nerve on each side.

Your Good Health

Hence, itching "around the neck" could not be expected to be shingles. Better rely on your doctor's judgment.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have eaten persimmons since I was a child with never any bad effects. Now some people are saying they are poison and will kill a person. I do not believe a word of it but please let me know real soon so I can eat them or if you say they are dangerous I will destroy them. — MRS. W.A.C.

Madam, you are living proof your friends do not know what they are talking about. Eat your persimmons in peace, but make sure they are ripe, as apparently you have been doing. The "poison" that your friends refer to is a substance in the unripe fruit that is very astringent and would make your lips pretty puckery.

Note to O.S.: No, emphysema is not contagious and is not passed from a victim to a healthy person.

Crew Finds Mummy

NANAIMO — A mummified child's body has been found in a box by B.C. Telephone Company crews working near Hogans Lake on Gabriola Island. It was discovered behind a rock on a ledge. Officials say the body probably formed an Indian burial. Poul play is not suspected, although routine investigations are continuing.

Around The Island

CAMPBELL RIVER — A total of 318 pints of blood has been collected at a Red Cross blood donor clinic in the community hall. The amount was considerably less than the quota of 400 the clinic hoped to collect, said Marcus Christling, chairman. The gifts included 62 pints from staff and trainees at Snowden and Lakeview minimum security prisons.

NANAIMO — North Oyster residents have collected $45 toward a fund for Harry Damant, and his granddaughter, Marlene, 15, who are homeless after fire destroyed their Yellow Point Road house Tuesday, killing Mrs. Beatrice Damant. Businessmen have offered to help and a dance is planned to boost the fund. Mr.

Chamber Lacks Money

PARKSVILLE — There has been controversy over the opening of Parksville tourist bureau this year, because the financial campaign of Parksville Chamber of Commerce fell short of its objective.

The estimated cost of operation of the tourist bureau, printing of brochures and the Vancouver Island and Publicity Bureau assessment is $2,400 and only $1,075 was realized in the blitz for funds.

The village council has appropriated $500 in its budget, but this still leaves over $300 to be found.

At the May meeting a motion was approved that the tourist bureau be opened even if on a curtailed basis.

A number of members felt that not opening the bureau would be a retrograde step, not in the best interests of Parksville. It was decided to continue a campaign for funds.

The Chamber is requesting a request for a traffic signal light at the intersection of the Alberni and Island highways, and is also supporting the village council in requests for promised highway widening and provision for pedestrian traffic.

The Chamber will sponsor a contestant in the Miss Parksville contest and will also arrange for the Miss Parksville dinner on July 1.

Mayor E. C. Irving was welcomed to the meeting by President Dudley Whelan and outlined various programs of the council.

Gulf Islands 'Carved Up'

Spanish Mayor Hugh Curtis has called for action to prevent the "indiscriminate carving up" of the Gulf Islands.

The mayor was speaking as chairman of the Capital regional district and based his remarks on a recent tour of North and South Pender Island.

SHOCKING — "I was invited to speak to the people there on the regional district," he said.

What he saw prompted him to label present development "a shocking disgrace."

He said that while development of the islands for retirement homes and summer cottages was acceptable, there should be control.

He scored subdivisions which created lots with 50-foot frontages, "as small as would be offered in an urban municipality and which are too small for rural development."

STRIP LOTS — He said he was appalled at the wholesale destruction of beautiful land being converted into close-packed subdivisions of narrow strip lots, with roads punched through willy-nilly and trees knocked down without regard to future needs for natural beauty.

The mayor said he wanted to bring to the attention of the residents of the capital regional district and the Gulf Islands his concern over the manner in which certain development is starting in the islands.

MODERATE — "We have a solution available to us if planning becomes a function of the regional district where moderate, and I stress the word moderate, planning controls could be instituted."

"I recognize that the islands, by their very nature, cannot and should not be treated in the same way that planning exists in urban areas."

Club. Bill Mantion was second and Tom Torgerson, third. Bruce Folkard won the event open to all cars still able to navigate after all the heats. Before the rally Gary Richmond won the best-looking car contest.

NANAIMO — Douglas Robinson, chairman of the Nanaimo Harbour Commission, announced Debec Construction Ltd. of Nanaimo was low bidder for the conversion of the old ice and cold storage harbour commission building on Front Street, to office space.

Marina Proposed

Big Scheme May Cost $500,000

CAMPBELL RIVER — A marina, esplanade and waterfront development, which could cost as much as $500,000, have been suggested for the downtown area.

A sketch plan has been provided for city council by the municipal affairs department. Council has decided to make preliminary inquiries into the scheme which would involve providing breakwaters and dredging and filling certain areas.

Federal and provincial officials have told aldermen that it was the policy of the federal government to help build public marinas. The aid amounted to 50 per cent of constructing the breakwaters.

There will be fill available when the provincial government dredges for the Quadra ferry, but that will have to be ripped at a cost of about $30,000.

Aldermen learned that the project would probably cost $500,000.

Council has also decided to open negotiations with the department of highways for acquisition of part of the Island highway between St. Anne's Road and Discovery Crescent North.

It is felt that the area could be turned into a mall. Traffic would be diverted onto Discovery Crescent which provides a suitable route for through traffic.

Converting the quarter-mile section into a service road, parking area and mall, council feels, would relieve parking problems better than parking meters would.

Merchants will be consulted to find out whether they prefer meters or malls.

DUNCAN — The union is digging in for a long strike, in a dispute between 28 clerks and the Cowichan School Board.

The only way the strike can be settled is if the board accepts the conciliation board award, said Tom Smith, spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Mr. Smith is in Duncan to assist women members of Local 606 in their bid to have salaries increased by 13.5 per cent.

This amount had been recommended by the conciliation board last month, but the Cowichan School Board rejected it.

The clerical workers began with their strike Monday morning.

Mr. Smith said Friday at the CUPE trailer strike headquarters, "There has been no suggestion of arbitration, and we won't consider it at this time."

'Washrooms Filthy'

Mr. Smith claimed clerical school board workers have accepted sub-standard wages for years.

"We also compromised as far as the conciliation award is concerned."

"We accepted it, although it still will leave us with less money than is being paid to clerical workers in the majority of other school districts in the province."

"To the best of my knowledge this is the first instance in British Columbia that a unanimous conciliation report has been rejected."

An attempt to find common ground for further negotiations between the union and the school board came to an abrupt halt within minutes, Thursday night.

Some parents in the district are protesting conditions, which were getting worse as the strike ended its fifth day.

One mother said she did not send her four children to school Friday morning.

She said she has one child in kindergarten and the other three are in classes up to Grade 5.

School janitors are members of the IWA and as such they have refused to cross the picket lines.

Garbage collection men are also honoring the picket line.

The mother stated "The smell from the washrooms is obnoxious and the conditions are deplorable."

"The younger children in the schools are too small to know to stay out of the mess."

"I am not sending my children to school."

"I would rather they miss one or two school days, than be sick for several days from something they picked up in the filthy washrooms."

Mr. Smith said "The board was advised that the union was not prepared to accept less than the union's conciliation board award."

He also said the clerical workers are being singled out by the trustees to accept substandard union rates, when other school board employees such as teachers are being paid no less than their counterparts in other school districts.

The union stated "The office workers will be on the picket line Friday and the week to follow until such time as the ultimate jury — the nine school trustees — is prepared to recognize that the unanimous report is the one and only basis for settlement."

The board stated "At a brief meeting between representatives of the opposing sides, it was ascertained the union was not prepared to compromise nor yield from the position taken which led to the strike."

"It insists on the conciliation board award, and not a penny less."

"The board feels its proposal established a wage structure substantially comparable with pay for clerical staff employed by the leading local employers."

"When it is considered that board clerks work a shorter work week, 35 hours as compared to 37-and-a-half hours, and enjoy a number of fringe benefits not normally granted such as cumulative sick leave, the board's offer results in a very high level of salaries for clerical help in the district."

Merchants Urged to Fight Takeover Bid by Labor

DUNCAN — A rallying cry to businessmen to stop labor from "taking over," has been sounded by a newspaperman who is retiring to become a minister.

Will Dobson, known for his work in the school board, the chamber of commerce and as editor of the Cowichan Leader, made his farewell speech to the chamber here.

He said he is concerned with deteriorating labor-management relations.

"Sorry State"

He claimed his own newspaper lost many subscriptions a few years ago, when the paper expressed opinions on a dispute between the IWA and a sawmill.

Mr. Dobson said, "If people cannot speak out what they are thinking, things are in a sorry state of affairs. If we are going to be afraid to express our convictions, we can just sit back and see labor takeover."

He said he is pleased to see the benefits of higher wages which are evident in this district.

"This is a highly unionized town," he said. "And I am not against it but labor is not letting the grass grow under its feet and is getting stronger all the time."

He stated the chamber of commerce has many weaknesses. "And I am sorry I have not had the time to work more on this."

Care Needed

He added, "We do not seem to be able to get our businesses on a basis where we have the time to do other things that have to be done."

Mr. Dobson said that in Port Alberni "Many businessmen will not touch the chamber because it might affect their business."

Mr. Dobson continued, "Business cannot allow the customers to take over."

"You have the authority when the chips are down, but there is this insidious development which will get worse before it gets better if we are not careful."

Ney Defends Cost

Traffic Survey Justifies Improvements to Roads

NANAIMO — Mayor Frank Ney said Friday that a traffic survey which cost more than $14,000 and was two years in preparation, was well worth the cost.

"The old city council was right in ordering the survey," Mayor Ney said.

"Without the report, there would be no justification for many of the proposed improvements in the area."

FUTURE PLANS

"This report, far from being too old to use, is worth the cost, because of the influence it will have on projects already planned, and on future ones."

He predicted the present highway would become a four-lane highway, and remain the prime traffic route.

"The logical way to come is right along the Trans-Canada Highway," he said, referring to the B.C. Ferry Terminal as being part of that highway.

TOURIST MECCA?

Referring to other matters, Mr. Ney said the future of the city is that of a beautiful tourist mecca.

"This area could become the Acapulco of Canada," he said. "The promenade, which was begun shortly after he came into office, is the focal point of the city's beautification possibilities," he said.

"The promenade could go right down to Departure Bay, eventually."

"It's something we can continue to beautify over the years, and could encircle the whole of Nanaimo's waterfront," he stressed.

He said that he had contacted B.C. Ferry Manager Monty Aldous for the second time, stressing the need for further investigation of ferry schedules.

He said the weekend traffic is still piling up, and that cars are being left behind.

"We should be giving top service to the Island traffic," he said.

Amalgamation, a frequently-studied possibility, is again the subject of further study, instituted by Mayor Ney.

Principal Pledges Hard Fight

Liberals Throw in Razzmatazz

PORT ALBERNI — Enthusiastic after what appears to have been the largest nominating convention this riding has ever had, Liberal nominee Dick Durante held his first press conference Friday morning.

Mr. Durante won the nomination on the first ballot in Parksville, when more than 400 Liberals from all parts of the riding held a gathering with more banners, singing, cheering and razzmatazz than has ever been seen at an up-island political gathering.

Much of the enthusiasm was sparked by young Liberals who turned out in force to support what one young man called "the Trudeau trend."

"The enthusiasm displayed by all the supporters at the convention is indicative of things to come right up to June 25. We're really going to sock it to them!" Mr. Durante said.

The 31-year-old school principal said he was both surprised and delighted that he had been chosen on the first ballot.

"One of the most important things is that we all left the convention hall completely united. Bill Moore, Gilbert Johnston, and Joe Stanhope have all committed themselves to be key workers in their respective areas of the riding," Mr. Durante said.

"I want to remind people that I am still principal of Eighth Avenue School until arrangements with the school board are completed."

CANADA

"But I'd like to see all candidate meetings in Campbell River, Courtenay and the Tofino-Uclulet area, too."

"I'd particularly like to meet the other candidates on the subject of Canadian unity."

Mr. Durante said he is particularly interested in the forgotten and neglected people of the community. "I count the Indians and many young people among these," he added.

THREE OTHERS

Mr. Durante said he is anxious to meet as many prospective constituents as possible, especially the young people.

He is also anxious to meet in public gatherings with the other three candidates, NDP's Tom

"There also has to be the strength of local opinion and the chamber represents a viewpoint of men willing to take a risk."

Big Poll

He concluded, "I think there will be a big poll at this election because a great many Canadians are concerned about the loss of individual power."

"We have small towns — big business, but never underestimate the power of the individual."

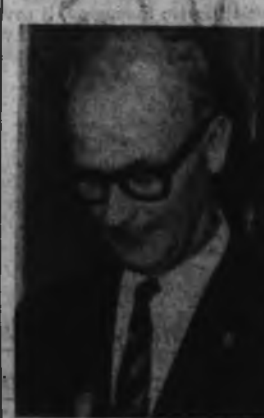

Chamber directors went on record as supporting the money bylaw for a $300,000 recreation complex which will go to a vote in September.

Director Earl Kidder recommended the chamber assist the joint recreation commission of Duncan and North Cowichan wherever possible in supporting the bylaw.

Pool Plan

Dick Benzie, who is a Duncan alderman, explained to the directors that the proposed swimming pool and community centre complex will cost about $720,000.

"The difference between this amount and the total $300,000 will pay for the difference between the original estimate of construction costs and the actual cost by the time the contract is let. The remainder of the money will be used to equip the building."

Ditches Filled? Women Say No

NORTH COWICHAN — Two North Road residents, Mrs. M. A. Walker and Mrs. Don Faye, have questioned a statement by North Cowichan Mayor Donald Morton that septic tank sludge ditches have been filled.

Mrs. Walker said she checked after Mayor Morton said the ditches had been filled and found they were still open.

Mayor Morton had said the effluent would be dumped elsewhere.

length. Each was between five and six feet deep.

Mayor Morton was not available for comment Friday.

Municipal engineer John Sanson explained the ditches had not been completely filled because the sewage would have covered the surrounding area.

"We filled them as much as we could and doused them with lime."

Within the next week we hope to have them completely filled," he added that the septic tank sludge will be dumped elsewhere in future.

Hanoi Insisting in Talks:

All Raids Must Stop

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's continued refusal Friday to accept any compromise on the issue of U.S. bombing raids posed a prospect of stalemate in the preliminary peace talks here.

With the talks resuming today after a two-day recess, a North Vietnamese spokesman said Ambassador Xuan Thuy would again demand that the U.S. stop all acts of war against the North.

Hanoi intends to hold out indefinitely for a bombing halt, spokesman Nguyen Van San said. "We will ask it again and again until it comes to pass."

Asked whether North Vietnam would offer some form of de-escalation of the communist war effort in the South, Sao replied: "There is not a single Vietnamese plane flying over the United States. The United States must stop the bombing. There is no compromise possible on this issue."

The U.S. delegation has declined to be pinned down to any specific formula for a bombing halt, but it has tied such action closely to a demand for a significant letup in North Vietnam's infiltration of men and supplies to the South.

William J. Jordan, spokesman for the U.S. delegation, told reporters a North Vietnamese agreement on any one specific point—for example, on restoration of the demilitarized zone between the two Vietnams—would not be enough to justify an end to all military action against the North.

"I would say that the condition for the cessation of the bombing would have to be based on the total situation prevailing at the time," Jordan said.

Thieu Accepts Saigon Cabinet Resigns

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Van Loc and his cabinet have resigned, a spokesman for Loc said today.

The spokesman, Buu Nghi, said President Nguyen Van Thieu had accepted the resignations of Loc and his 17 ministers but asked them to stay on as a caretaker government until a new cabinet can be formed.

Loc was a close ally of Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky in the Saigon hierarchy. Ky and Thieu have been rivals for the nation's leadership.

'DO-NOTHING' CABINET
The resignations apparently had no connection with Vietnam talks in Paris between the United States and North Vietnam.

Loc, 45, served six months as premier. Critics charged his ministers were a "do-nothing" cabinet because Loc was caught between the conflicting demands of Thieu and Ky and hesitated to take decisive action.

Draft Centre Rushed And Records Burned

CATONSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Nine anti-war protesters charged into an armed forces induction office here Friday, dumped 600 draft records into trash burners, and set them afire in a nearby parking lot.

The nine included two men, Rev. Philip Berrigan, a Josephite priest, and Thomas Lewis, a peace worker, who already were facing possible prison terms for their part in a demonstration last October when blood was poured on draft board records in Baltimore.

The nine entered the office shortly after noon. Mrs. Mary Murphy, 53, the chief clerk and one of the three women in the office said one approached her and she asked "What can I do for you?" The others crowded around and then charged into the room where the files of 13,000 men were stored.

She said two of the men carried large trash burners. "We don't mean any harm," one man said.

They emptied the contents of four file drawers into the burners. Each drawer contained 150 files. One of the clerks tried to stop them and was pushed aside. Mrs. Murphy got a hand or one of the burners and received a cut finger when it was wrestled away from her.

John Moxley, a maintenance man at the building, said he saw the crowd enter the building and a few minutes later heard Mrs. Murphy scream. "She screamed and

Broader Plan By CBC

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC announced Friday night it remains ready to organize a bilingual television debate between the leaders of the three major political parties campaigning for the June 25 federal election.

The statement followed Ottawa reports that negotiations for a Trudeau-Stanfield national television debate on CTV had broken off.

J. P. Gilmore, a CBC vice-president, said in a statement here the CBC "is agreeable to make suitable co-production arrangements with CTV for a national debate."

He said the CBC would make such broadcasts available to "every radio and television station in Canada."

Conservative officials announced in Ottawa that the CTV debate between Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield had been cancelled. They blamed Trudeau.

The prime minister has said that he would be willing to take part in a television debate only if other party leaders, including T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, were able to participate.

Conservative campaign chairman Edwin Goodman, said a five-man debate would not be a confrontation but more like a United Nations Security Council round-table meeting.

Goodman said Trudeau earlier had agreed in principle to a debate with Stanfield "and with no other person."

Senator John Nichol, chairman of the Liberal campaign, said Goodman "would not enter into discussions as to formats by which other parliamentary leaders could participate."

Trudeau was quoted on an Ottawa television station as saying "... you television people started this; well you solve it and I'm prepared to accept any conditions which are acceptable to all as fair and equitable."

Variety of Causes

Five Nations Feel Wrath of Students

By Reuters

Student unrest flared in five countries Friday, with marches, demonstrations, strikes and violence sparked by a variety of causes. (See Page 38.)

IN PARIS, which last week saw the worst peacetime street-fighting in a century, militant students met and demonstrated in an effort to cement an alliance with striking workers.

IN MADRID, an attempted demonstration by about 400 university students against the Spanish head of state, Francisco Franco, was thwarted by police backed by cavalry and water hoses. The students blocked traffic, hurled tables and chairs and stoned police and passing cars before dispersing.

IN DUBLIN, hundreds of university students marched on two newspaper offices to protest press reporting of disturbances there Wednesday during the visit of the king and queen of Belgium.

IN MILAN, Italy, mounted police charged about 400 university students as they started out on a march, chanting slogans against the government.

IN SOUTH AMERICA, violence erupted in the Peruvian town of Huancayo as students demanding a technical university blew up two bridges and attacked the local police station. One person was killed and 10 seriously injured when police opened fire and used tear-gas.

Ailing Kosygin in Prague

PRAGUE (AP)—Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived here unexpectedly Friday, hard on the heels of a top-level Soviet military mission, for what was officially described as medical treatment and talks with the leaders of Czechoslovakia's new liberal government.

The visit, announced only after Kosygin's arrival from Moscow, came as Czechoslovak officials were trying to play down some of the violent anti-Soviet attacks of the uncensored Prague press. The government has been bending backward to assure the Kremlin that it will remain communist, despite Soviet concern.

Kosygin, said an announcement, came at the invitation of the Czechoslovak Communist party presidium and the government. It said he would undergo treatment for an undisclosed illness and exchange views with officials "on questions of mutual interest."

Kosygin was described as taking "a short leave."

Socreds Could Lose in Close Race

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — There are strong and persistent signs that Tuesday's byelection vote in Vancouver South could result in an upset defeat for Social Credit.

Although the Socreds, NDP and Liberals are all predicting victory by a substantial margin, some party officials are saying privately as the six-week campaign winds up this weekend the result will be close.

Both New Democrat Norman Levi and Liberal E. A. (Sandy) Robertson are predicting they will make big gains this time. And an on-the-spot check of voter reaction indicates the underdog Liberals may be gaining ground on the NDP which established early dominance in the campaign.

This leaves Socred George Wainborn, supported a high-powered cabinet contingent headed by Premier Bennett, fighting to hold onto the remnants of what had been a comfortable lead in the riding in the Sept. 12, 1968, provincial general election.

An accurate prediction by professional politician, pollster or pundit, is made more difficult than usual because this is a byelection.

The best-laid political plans, particularly of the government, are liable to run afoul of what is known as the byelection syndrome. This is then the voter, overcome by frustration, lets off steam by kicking the administration without running the risk of a change of government.

The issues, and predicting the final outcome, are further confused by the June 25 federal election campaign just now getting under and a local city-wide plebiscite on downtown development slated to be held next Wednesday, the day after the byelection.

Honors for the best campaign organization must go to the NDP.

The NDP's Norman Levi, a

stocky 41-year-old who is on leave of absence from his job as a social worker with the John Howard Society, is a proven vote-getter in the area. He has five children, was a tank driver in the British Army and later in the 1948 Israel-Arab conflict, and is a fluent and articulate speaker.

His opponents refer to the NDP candidate and the party's campaign organization as "the professionals." Mr. Levi ran federally in the riding in 1963, polling 10,700 votes, and in the last provincial election he was runner-up with 9,067 — some 2,700 behind Social Credit's second successful candidate in the two-seat riding.

The NDP has concentrated on a massive sign campaign, intensive personal canvassing in
